EDITORIAL BRIEFS

SOUTH DAKOTO is a prohibition state.

ALL the Prohibition States are Republican.

THE French electors gave Boulangism its death blow on Sunday.

TANNER continues to talk and says many things worth listening to.

ABOUT 120 delegates attended the convention of the Union Prohibitory League.

D J MACREY, president of a western railroad system covering 400 miles, has started on a novel inspection tour. He means to cover the ground on foot.

CHARLES DICKENS' daughter is a typewriter in London. And she doesn't have to do the work, either. But she is a woman who objects to being idle.

GEN. HARTRANFT says the feeble state of his health will not permit him to accept the appointment of commissioner of pensions, even if it is offered to him.

THE coroner's jury find that a rum-befuddled engineer was responsible for the South Englewood horror on the Rock Island. About twenty persons were killed, mangled or scalded.

THOMAS A EDISON has returned from his European trip and embraces the first opportunity to deny that the king of Italy had made him a count The king did give him a decoration, but that was all.

THE London Spectator is of the opinion that no State, however powerful, will again do with ease anything to which the vigorous Republic is opposed. It has the vigorous foreign policy of Mr. Blaine in mind when it thinks thus.

Is the Congress of American Nations for the purpose of giving the South American people an exalted opinion of our country or to plan for a larger commerce between the nations? The arrangements seem to be such as to accomplish the former result.

THE Lancaster New Era says: Beet sugar is selling in the London market at 4½ cents per pound. The price of the same grade of sugar here at home is eight cents. Can any one tell us why we can't make sugar as cheaply here as in Europe? We know of no reason to the contrary.

GEN. MAHONE is making his canvass in Virginia on the principles of free schools for all and Protection to American industries. If there are any Republicans who are dissatisfied for personal reasons, they will probably lay aside such feeling and work heartily for Republican success.

IF the Anarchists of Chicago will agree to carry no red flags and other insignia reflecting on law and order they will be allowed to parade on the anniversary of the Haymarket massacre. Otherwise they will be stopped. Chicago is in training for the Columbus Exposition now, and will stand no foolishness.

REPORTS of the state of trade continue to be encouraging. Five cotton mills started up in New England last week, while seven others are enlarging their works. The shoe factories are busy, the paper mills and glass factories are running on full time. Business in general is better than for five years past, encouraging signs. There is no tariff-smashing programme in sight this year to discourage manufacturers.

THE PROGRESS OF REFORM.

The growth of the sentiment in favor of a non-partisan civil service is one of the most gratifying signs of the times. For years the feeble voices that dared to advocate this necessary reform were hardly heard amidst the din of conflicting armies, the noise of political campaigns, and the conflicts of hungry office seekers. Slowly but surely the agitation has spread, however, till the demand for common sense, business, principles in government affairs can no longer be ignored. Now that the reconstruction of the Southern states is finally accomplished, that specie payments have been resumed, that the public debt is rapidly being extinguished, that the foreign relations of the government are undisturbed, and that the protective tariff has been sanctioned by large popular majorities, time is given to the people to turn from policies to methods, and having decided what the government shall do, to determine how it shall be done.

The Tenure of Office act, and the creation of the civil service commission, were the first evidences that the legislators understood the popular feeling on this subject. Gradually the civil service law has been extended 'till now it covers fifteen thousand offices. In all our great cities, too, the municipal police systems have been made non partisan, greatly to the improvement of the force, and to the comfort of the citizens. In many of the states also the clerical corps of the state governments has been removed from politics. Everywhere there are numerous straws showing very plainly that the wind of irresistible popular desire is blowing in the direction of a non-partisan civil service.

But it is not so much what has already been done in this regard, as what is likely to be accomplished in the future, that encourages and inspires the friends of pure and efficient government. The conversions from the ranks of the spoilsmen to the army of reformers have been innumerable. Those who jeered and satirized the advocates of reform in its early stages are now its most prominent supporters. It may without exaggeration be truthfully asserted that all the enlightenment, education, and patriotism of the nation are enlisted in its favor. Those who oppose it are office seekers, those who are ignorant, and those who are indifferent. All citizens, who are not after an office, and who have given the subject any thought, are its more or less active advocates. Evidence that this is so is all around us. Every one of us perceives the change of opinion on this subject among our acquaintances. But the most convincing proof is afforded by the attitude of the press. In the last six years the leading newspapers of the country, those which sway the minds of millions of readers, and may be said to give the political bias to the nation, have explicitly declared themselves advocates of civil service reform. Among them are the New York Tribune, Times, Herald; and Post, the Boston Journal, Herald, Traveler, Post and Transcript, the Philadelphia Press, Ledger and Inquirer, the Chicago Times, Tribune and Inter-Ocean, the Louisville Courier, Journal, and the St. Louis Globe Democrat. The list might be almost indefinitely extended, but the ones numerated are sufficient to show the drift of popular sentiment. It is true that a number of newspapers of immense circulation are fighting reform tooth and nail, but their influence is small, and among a class which is rapidly being diminished by the diffusion of education and enlightenment.

Not only is the evidence of the newspapers in favor of civil service reform, but most of our leading statesmen have also professed themselves its adherents. President Harrison, Senator Edmunds of Vermont, Senators Hoar and Dawes of the old Bay State, Senator Sherman of Ohio, Congressman Lodge of Massachusetts, Secretary Windom, and others have been especially explicit in their declarations. Among the Democrats, Mr. Cleveland holds a lonely position as the only reformer in his party, but his practice has been so contrary to his professions that most people have lost faith in him. Then among the dead and gone, the most illustrious of our statemen were advocates of a non-partisan civil service. All the first six presidents, the brilliant Clay and the eloquent Webster, and, in recent times, our martyr president, Garfield, were enlisted in the cause. Indeed had the latter lived, the reform might now be an accomplished fact. But it was fated otherwise, and the anti-spoilsman fell a victim to the greed of a hungry office seeker. However, the cause goes marching on, and the day of victory cannot be far distant. It is true that the majority is not yet awakened to the necessity of reform, but in a few years the masses will reach the stand now occupied by the van guard, and the power of the whole people will redeem our government from the corroding blot of the spoils system.

THE WRECK OF FAITH.

Mr. Ingersoll perhaps experiences the most trying ordeal of his life when called upon to officiate at the funeral of a friend. On such an occasion not long ago he remarked of the tenantless clay at his feet, that the man—his friend—enjoyed this life and if there was another existence he would enjoy that.

Ah, the size of that IF with its dark shadow spaning all space, how the rythm of his rhetoric and the power of a mighty pathos shrink in its shadow to die in darkness.

Mr. Ingersoll is not a philanthropist; he is not a humanitarian. If either would he, could he cut the clinging fingers of faith from the life-boat, himself offering no rescue, knowing none?

If with one accord we should accept Mr. Ingersoll's faith to-day, think if you dare of what would follow. To-morrow would tear down the church towers, silence the silvery sound of their bells having no longer any message of cheer, no story to tell.

Check the lullaby on the mother's lips, no angels guard the slumbering babe.

Command the throats of Christendom's thousands of little ones to silence, there is no "Old. old story," no "Refuge of my Soul," no "Coronation," no "Rock of Ages."

With the acceptance of Mr. Ingersoll's creed all of our churches converted into asylumns would not contain the wreck of reason wrought, for the time comes to every soul. If Mr. Ingersoll has not met it then it awaits him, when friends and fortune failing us, the tried friend of love itself trembling beneath us—if to our cry for help there should be no answer we would be forced to follow the beckoning finger of despair into dawnless darkness. M.

THE result of the elections in the four new states is at last made clear, definite news from Montana having been telegraphed east on Sunday night. The two Dakotas and Washington have elected republican governors, congressmen and legislators. Montana elected a democratic governor and legislature and a republican congressman. The new states will thus send six republicans and two democrats to the United States senate and five republicans to the national house of representatives. This is a little better than the republicans expected for they were prepared to see a democratic representative returned by Montana, and the election of the republican candidate was a very pleasant surprise in view of the very slender republican majority in the house.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to secure the observance of Sunday in St. Petersburg, Russia, as it is observed in this country and Great Britain. Twelve hundred St. Petersburg merchants have expressed their willingness to close their places of business on that day, and the movement will doubtless spread to other cities in Russia. In most countries in Europe, Sunday has been made a gala day, and a tendency to make it such has been observed in many cities in our own country where the foreign-born population is large. It is pleasant to note even a small beginning toward Sunday observance in a part of Europe where the day has been, heretofore, little regarded. May a vital change soon be inaugurated in France and Germany.

THE four counties which made the largest percent of increase in 1888 over their Republican vote of 1884 are Sullivan, Forest, Cambria and Potter, in the order named. The increase in Sullivan county was 39 per cent., that of Forest county was 30 per cent. Each of the four counties received a banner from the Republican State Committee. Two similar prizes are offered for this year. See if Centre county cannot win one of them.

THERE is a very decided difference of opinion between Judge Sawyer, of the United States district court, and the grand jury of San Joaquin county, California, concerning the killing of Judge Terry by United States Marshall Nagle. Judge Sawyer says it was "entirely justifiable in law;" the grand jury says it was "intentional and deliberate murder." Public opinion throughout the country seems to agree with the judge.

The First Congress of the Americas.

The International American Congress which has been opened at Washington is the second organized effort to bring the Governments of this continent into harmonious relations. The first council was advocated by Bolivar, in 1821, and was finally summoned to meet at Panama after the negotiation of a series of treaties between Central and South American States. Mr. Clay a month after he became Secretary of State in 1825, received overtures from the Mexican and Columbian Ministers in relation to the participation of the United States Government in this Congress. The project was a congenial one that enlisted his hearty sympathy, the general conception of a league of republics represented in the New World by a species of amphictyonic council appealing strongly to his imagination and enthusiastic nature. The invitation was immediately accepted, and Ministers were commissioned by President John Quincy Adams to attend the Congress. Mr. Clay, by his functions as President-maker, had excited the rancorous enmity of political factions in the House and Senate, and his South American policy was bitterly assailed and successfully obstructed. The Senate first took umbrage at the appointment of Ministers without its advice and consent, but when President Adams reluctantly sent in the nominations, confirmed them after protracted debate, in which slaveholders combined with opponents of the Monroe Doctrine in antagonizing the policy of the mission. In the House appropriations for the mission were strenuously resisted, and it was not until June, 1826, that the envoys set out for Panama. One of the United States representatives died on the way, while the other arrived after the Congress had adjourned to meet at Tacubaya, Mex. As the second session never took place owing to the distractions of South American politics, the United States Government was not represented in the Congress.

The failure of the Panama Congress, while a bitter disappointment to Mr. Clay, was inevitable in the circumstances. Aside from those factional resentments which inspired hostility to his diplomatic policy and rendered it inoperative through delay, the South American scheme was essentially political in its character, differing in this respect from the present Congress, which is grounded upon commercial and economic interests reciprocally affecting the seventeen nations represented in it. It is true that President Adams in his messages to Congress referred to the possibility of making advantageous arrangements of commercial reciprocity; but he was acting on the defensive, and naturally had recourse to generalizations which seemed to deprive the council of its political character. Those who had projected the Congress contemplated the organization of a defensive league against European aggression, which had recently plotted the re-establishment of Spanish tyranny in South and Central America. There were among Bolivar's followers advocates of an aggressive policy aimed to accomplish the liberation of Porto Rico and Cuba and it was this fact that alarmed the Southern Senators, who naturally apprehended a slave insurrection in their own States, if those islands were to be revolutionized as the result of the Panama Congress. Commercial considerations had a small part in that ill-directed and unsuccessful attempt to concentrate American forces and interests. The Monroe Doctrine itself, which had only recently been proclaimed, was regarded with suspicion by the Spanish-American republics, and the United States envoys were virtually instructed to interpret it as the assertion of a benevolent privilege on the part of the strongest Power to offer friendly advice to weaker States. The scheme for concerted action which Bolivar and his friends had in view was political rather than commercial in its scope, and Mr. Clay, as is apparent from his State papers, fully understood the limitations of the Congress.

MR. W L SCOTT, the Erie Millionaire Congressman, is sending out vast numbers of the Erie Herald containing his letter explaining the suffering among his miners in Illinois. But, nevertheless, his miners are still starving, their children are begging and their health is being permanantly impaired by lack of sufficient food and no one ever heard of Democratic Millionaire Scott even giving a crumb of bread to anyone that was not paid for in work twice over. In comparison with him millionaires such as Republican Carnegie are quite angelic.

AUTUMN ARBOR DAY.

The State Department of Public Instructions has issued the official circular appointing Friday, October 18th, as Autumn Arbor Day. The circular, among other things, says:

"The results to be reached by the observance of Arbor Day are not yet accomplished. Where school grounds are already properly ornamented with groves and lawns, so that no further work of the kind is needed, let such a sentiment be established among the children by suitable exercises and instructions as shall make itself felt in all their homes, by leading to the planting of fruit and shade trees, the enlargement of fruit orchards, and the ornamentation of yards with shrubbery and vines. Let the schools, by repeated celebrations of Arbor Day, create such a general, wide-spread feeling in this manner as shall make it impossible, for the next generation at least, to lay out or enlarge a hamlet or village or city without having in view wide, shaded streets and lawns and parks, and embowered driveways, which will give so much additional charm to the beautiful scenery of our Commonwealth."

THE annual report of the Utah Election Commissioners is completed, but it has not yet been published in full. A despatch from Chicago, where the Commissioners are assembled, says that the committee, in accordance with statute provisions, appointed registrars and issued instructions to the election officers for the next election in February and it is thought will recommend additional legislation. It is also understood that other recommendations may be made as follows: That many of the territorial and county officers and superintendents of the district schools be appointed by the President or Governor; that the district courts be given greater powers of jurisdiction in cases of polygamy in the territory; that prosecutions for such offenses be exempted from the statute of limitations; that it be a penal offence for a woman to enter the polygamous relation, and extending the term of imprisonment for such offence; depriving polygamists of the privilege of entering and acquirfng public lands; forbidding the immigration of those believing in polygamy, and the adoption of a law similar to what is known as the Idaho law, disfranchising persons who belong to an organization which teaches and upholds polygamy. These are strong and stringent recommendations, and their adoption and enforcement would effect very positive and permanent reforms—reforms that should be insisted on before any consideration should be given to the project of making Utah a State of the Union.

THERE is so much good literature in the world that it is a thousand pities the young waste so much time upon that which is of no value even if it is not positively poisonous. And the misfortune is that one cannot point out the books which are hurtful without putting some foolish mortal in the way of doing himself harm by seeking that which is condemned, for the surest way to increase the circulation of an evil book or a vile newspaper is to condemn it. Parents, however, who have authority in their own households, should supervise the reading of their children, and that they may do this with knowledge, they should be readers themselves or should seek the advice of one who is competent to judge of the value of modern books.

THE Richmond Planet, the organ of the colored people in Virginia, publishes under the head of "Lynched" a record of those of the race put to death by lynching or by the shot gun, or by any other means resorted to by the brutally "superior" white race. The total number from July 26th, 1887, to September 10th, 1889, is 352. This is a ghastly record, and it is as disgraceful as ghastly. It is disgraceful to the States, and disgraceful to the nation. During this time not one white man has been hung for the murder of a colored man. Are the colored people mere dogs, that the law has no punishment for those who kill them? The situation is one that demands some remedy, and quickly.—Ex.

IF reports from Cadiz, Ohio, are true the White Caps of that state have not only not been suppressed, but they are traveling hard in the footsteps of the bulldozers of Mississippi. It is said in a telegram from Cadiz that on Saturday night "a party of men went to the house of James West, a respected colored citizen, forced his wife and children to go half-clothed into the street and then demolished the house and thoroughly wrecked its contents."

Our Story Teller.

THE MINISTER'S BARGAIN.

The new minister came down from his room in a costume more suggestive of a day laborer than a gentleman of the cloth. He was young. This was his first charge, unless his young wife might be considered his first charge, which he had cared for well. She met him now at the foot of the stairs, her pretty nose turned upward, and a look of smiling disgust on her face.

'James!' she exclaimed, 'how you do look! Suppose Deacon Brown should come to call?'

'Tell him that I am at the back of the lot,' said her husband, cheerfully, 'and that they must give me a larger salary if they don't expect me to beat my own carpets.'

It might not have been anything remarkable if the worthy deacon, seeing his pastor, had been shocked at the reverend gentleman's appearance. He wore an old slouch hat, and the remainder of his toilet was entirely in-keeping with that tramplike remnant. Even his every-day clothes must not be subjected to the trial of carpet-beating.

The carpet was not very large, nor very new, although the house-keeping trials of that little family were both. It belonged with the entire building, the wear and tear of many a donation party and the playful feet of many little children. The sturdy young man soon had it stretched across the line and proceeded to whittle a convenient stick into proper shape. The day was very windy, and anyone who has tried to beat a carpet in such weather understands the difficulties which constantly beset him. It is simply astonishing how much dust can hide itself within the outside company character of a deceitful ingrain carpet—how it will, when its faults are discovered, elude every effort to correct them! But the young minister was not to be discouraged. In this new field he would have harder foes to fight.

In the late part of the forenoon his wife came out to tell him that one of the deacons had actually come, and he replied that he would receive him there at his post, or King Æolus might decide to carry the little carpet off on a breezy trip. Thus it came to pass that the clergyman, wiping the perspiration and dust from his face, was soon discussing church-work with Mr. Everett.

"You will not find the field a difficult one, I fancy," said the gentleman, "although there are a few perplexities. There is one man who is a great vexation and disappointmet to us. Mr. Bedford, yonder, some years ago became alienated from the church, and since then has done a great deal to hinder, rather than to help, our work. He is a wealthy man; in fact, the only one in the village, and was a great loss to the church. I was hopeful that a new pastor might get hold of him, but I almost fear he is beyond our reach."

The minister cast his eye toward the pretty stone house, up the brook a little way, surrounded by the prosperous farms of its owner, stretching out to the background of wooded hills. Who knew but it might be his mission there to help this erring one, so rich in gold, but so poor at heart!

The odor of broiling beefsteak was already beginning to suggest a welcome repast in the tiny dining-room, and the carpet was conquered. The wearied worker was turning his face toward the breeze that slipped softly along the brookside, when there approached him an elderly gentleman, with somewhat severe lips and deep-set eyes.

"I am looking for a man to beat my carpet," he said; "it must wait no longer. I have been watching you this morning, and I think you are about the sort of a man I want. You look as though you would be glad of a job. Is this the parsonage carpet? What a dirty little rag it is! My name is Bedford; my home is the stone house yonder. Well, what do you say?

It may be that a roguish smile played for a moment about the young minister's handsome features, but it was suppressed before his would-be employer had noticed it.

"I think," he said, "that I will be able to do your work."

But his sudden idea must be even more quickly decided upon. 'If you don't know,' said his interviewer, sternly, 'I will seek elsewhere. I am a prompt man, and I wish others to be.'

'I will do your work for you,' said the clergyman, 'and will be at your house in an hour.'

The engagement being made, his visitor left, and he hastened in toward the beefsteak, feeling that his real character would be betrayed by his wife.

'Kittie,' he said, as he came down a second time, without having improved his toilet, 'I am going over to the stone house, across the brook, to beat the gentleman's carpet.'

'James!' said his wife, again showing merry dismay. 'To what limit will your generosity extend? I am afraid you are not planning to make a very long stay in this church. When are you going to write your sermon?'

"I have my text," he said gaily;

'Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' And I am not showing generosity, either. I have hired out Good-bye!' and, with a parting kiss, the workman started for his task.

Mr. Bedford's Brussels carpet, of fine texture and choice pattern, had never been served better than that afternoon. The young minister did his work well, and, when it was done, looked at the clean fabric, spread upon the green grass, with as much satisfaction as he had had over his first sermon. Mr. Bedford's place afforded more assistance than he had at his home, but this carpet was also larger than his, and the day was plainly waning when, the object of his labors deposited with his own muscular arms in its proper place, he sought his employer and informed him that his work was done.

'Well,' said Mr. Bedford, uttering the favorite monosyllable more pleasantly than usual, 'you have done it well; I shall inquire for you when I need further help. What is your name, and how much do I owe you?'

The roguish smile overcame its bashfulness this time, and stayed boldly on the clergyman's face. He reached into his ragged pocket and drew forth his card:

REV. JAMES WESTWOOD,
Avondale Berean Church.
Sabbath services 10.30 a. m., and 7 p. m.

'My card,' he said, pleasantly handing it to his employer; 'and if you will make yourself at home in my church, Mr. Bedford, and we may look to you for help and sympathy, we will consider this matter square.'

It is not in my power to describe the astonished look, or astonished thoughts which succeeded this disclosure. Mr. Bedford seemed undecided as to whether to be disgusted or amused.

'So you are the new minister?' he said.

'I have that honor,' said the ragged and reverend gentleman.

'Well,' said Mr. Bedford again grimly, 'your wages are high—Something out of my line entirely, I may say; but you have done your part, and its a fair bargain: I said I would let you set your own price. Will you remain to tea, Mr. Westwood?'

But the new minister wended his way across the brook-path toward his little home, and with a lighter heart than if he had earned many a dollar by his hard day's work; and dollars were not too common in his modest pocket-book, as you, dear friend, well know.

Suffice it to say, that the bargain was kept; that a prominent pew in the village church became the property of Mr. Bedford, until, instead of his creating surprise by his presence there, the doctor used to write his name in his memorandum, whenever he did not appear in his place on Sabbath morning. Let me pause to tell that one morning, not long afterward, a large package was left on the porch of the tiny parsonage, which was found to contain a carpet of as fine texture and finely harmonized tints as Mr. Bedford's own, just the size for the parlor of that home; let me even add, that, as the anniversary returns each year, one more floor in the house is decked with a new and lovely covering, from the stone house over the brook, and that when the number is complete, it is suspected that the church itself is coming in for a share; for Mr. Bedford always declares that the young minister has never received his full wages for that job done by the ragged carpet-beater.—R. A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady of this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. —Get a free trial bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co's. Drug Store.

A Different Matter.

Chicago Merchant (scowling at book agent)—I have no time to look at your Bibles. I have forty at home.

A Dig in the Ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphragm, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chappy whose liver is out of order. When that region is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is furred, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulderblade. Also, that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest anti-bilious and alterative medicine extant. Incomparable is it, also, for dyspepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney trouble, and fever and ague.

Innocent Men in Prison.

Nearly five years ago six men were sent to the penitentiary for twelve years each for robbing Adam Keck, a well-known resident of Scottdale, Pa. They were Abraham Coffman, Jacob Weible, Jacob Saylor, James Dodson, Joseph Workman and George W Coffman. If the confession of Abe Coffman is to be believed, four of the men were innocent, and have served nearly five years' imprisonment for the deed committed by others.

In his confession, which is addressed to Governor Beaver, Coffman says that Jacob Weible, George Coffman, Joseph Workman and James Dobson had nothing to do with the robbery. It was Bill Killinger, Tim Valentine, Jake Saylor, and himself who committed the crime. Two of these—Bill Killinger and Tim Valentine—are still at liberty.

Coffman says that Saylor and he watched near the house of Keck, while Killinger and Valentine entered and robbed the old man. Coffman says he was under the influence of liquor and after the robbery wanted to leave, but they forced him to go with them. An effort is now being made to have the four men pardoned, and it is thought they will soon be released.

An Embarrassing Introduction.

Gloucester Breeze.

In introducing a speaker the other night, the person who made the presentation concluded the introducing speech with the following words:

'I have no doubt that you appreciate the opportunity which you have of listening to the discourse on the life and character of the great statesmen, by this eloquent gentleman. I have no doubt that you will feel as grateful as I at the close."

At the Cashier's Window.

Robber—I have you in my power! I am the king of the outlaws! Hand out the cash.

Cashier—I have never seen you before. You will have to be identified before we can do business.

They Went.

Charlie Karamels—I wish I was like your watch, Gertie, then my face would ever be before you.

Miss Gertie (with a yawn)—But you are, Charlie; my watch, you know, doesn't seem disposed to go.

Teacher: 'For what was the year 1876 remarkable, Tommy?' Tommy: 'Why, that's the year I was born.'

Fashion—Artist (with a bow): 'How will you have your sleeves made?' Miss Maud: 'What is the style now—too tight or too loose?'

'What are your charges, doctor?' 'Three dollars a visit.' 'Well, we don't want you to come on a visit, but just to stay ten or fifteen minutes.'

'You have no idea what has been spent on my education. Why, every single word of French that I speak has cost my father at least twenty dollars.'

No Chance at All—'The idea of Bilsby's aspiring to the United States Senatorship! Why, man, he is disqualified.' 'How's that?' 'Why, he's only worth $100,000.'

'Mr. Dash may be a very fine player, but I do not intend to ask him to my lawn tennis parties.' 'Why, what is there against him?' 'Oh! he pays too much attention to the game and too little to the girls.'.

E: "You say you saw everything in Rome in three days? That's impossible, F: "But you must remember that there were three of us. My wife took in all the churches, I visited all the picture galleries and my son went for the restaurants and cafes. Then we met in the evening and swapped experiences."

In comparing the literary merits of Dickens and Thackeray, an after-dinner orator in London said: "It's the wonderful insight inter'uman nature that Dickens gets the pull over Thackeray; but on t'other hand, it's in the brilliant shafts of satire, t'gether with a keen sense o' humor, that Dickery gets the pull over Thackens. It's just this: Thickery is a humorist and Dackens is a satirist. But after all it's 'surd to instoot any comparison between Dackery and Thickens."

The Excitement Not Over.

The rush on the druggists still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free.

Fit for Tat.

She (as he steals a kiss)—Why, you rubber! I shall have you arrested for larceny from the person.

He (kissing her once more)—Very well; I have given it back. If you make that complaint against me, I shall charge you with receiving stolen property, knowing it to be such.

HELPED THE AUTHOR OUT.

How a Printer Inserted a Good Idea of his Own and Lost his Job.

Chicago Times.

A printer told the story.

'I had a good job,' he said, 'in a Monroe street fiction foundry—one of those print shops where they publish stories of the 'Skeleton Hunter's Last Gurgling Gasp' order by the cord. It is the rankest kind of rot, and is liable to give a printer blood-poisoning if he handles much of it. It is the sort of literature that induces little boys to get up in the night, steal the old man's pocket-book, buy guns, and start out West to rescue the imperilled maiden from the lair of the robber chieftain and restore her to her agonized parents.

'There were twenty printers and six lairs, each a full-fledged Ananias, working in the place. The lairs sat at a table in one end of the room grinding out those unwholesome stories as fast as we could put them in type. One day I got a wad of copy that was positively sickening. It was about a lovely girl who had been captured and torn from her home by a heartless white desperado and his band of blood-thirsty Apaches. The girl was in a desperate fix. She either had to marry the villian or become his wife, he didn't care which, and he was then on his way to a cave in the mountain, where he was going to have the ceremony performed.

'That night they camped in a rocky gorge 200 miles from nowhere and bound the unfortunate maiden to a tree with the usual buckskin thongs, which cut deep into her tender wrists. Then they all laid down and went to sleep. In the meantime Old Zeke, the Hairy Scout, who was on the trail, sneaked up just at daylight, when people sleep the soundest. Zeke sailed in and killed twenty-five or thirty Indians with the butt end of his trusty rifle. He didn't want to shoot for fear he would waken the others. Then, after he had cut a notch for each corpse on his gunstock and hung the coarse, black scalp-locks to his belt, he released the girl, hoisted her under his arm, jumped into the saddle and rode away.

'He rode at full speed for forty eight miles without stopping. When night closed in the bold scout pulled rein and went into camp. First he picketed his horse, then built a fire, fixed a cot of leaves for the girl, and got her something to eat out of his saddle bags. This was where I got in my work.

'The first thing Zeke took out of the bags was several thick slices of fresh Vienna bread with honey on them. Next came cold boiled ham, cut thin, an apple pie with a short, crispy upper crust, and last a tender spring chicken roasted a delicate brown. Mind you, he had all this stuff in a pair of saddle bags in the wilds of the Rocky Mountains, 300 miles from civilization, in the year 1836. It made me sick, but I resolved that the poor girl should have one good feed if I died for it. So I shoved in another paragraph like this, completing the bill of fare:

'After getting the girl started Zeke reached into the saddle bag and pulled out a bowl of steaming hot consomme, a broiled fresh mackerel, some deviled crabs, cold slaw, potato salad, a half fry, veal cutlets breaded, with tomato sauce, green corn on the cob, some clam chowder, stewed turkey, a portion of rice pudding, two cups of chocolate, pork tenderloin, Rochefort cheese, and a bottle of Bass's ale, Saratoga chips, a plate of vanilla ice cream, a chinese paper napkin, sliced cucumbers, some California grapes, and a nickel-plated nut cracker.'

'Did it go?' asked an interested listener.

'No, it didn't,' said the printer sadly, 'but I did. The boss came to me next morning with a proof slip and wanted to know who was writing that story. I said the author was making a stagger in that direction, but wasn't giving the girl a fair show.

'That may be,' said the boss, 'but if he wants to run a cafe in connection with the story we'll hire a cook and make it easier for you.'

'Then he told me that I was too smart to be a printer, and had better go out where the cool air would strike me. I went.'

All the corkwood of commerce comes from the Spanish peninsula where the trees not only abound in cultivated forests but also grow wild on the mountains. The tree is like the American oak with leaves and acorns similar to the oak. It takes ten years for the bark to become a proper thickness to be manufactured into bottle stoppers, life preservers and seine corks. When stripped from the tree it is to be boiled for two hours, cured in the sun for a week and pressed into flat pieces for shipping. The denuded trunk, like a hen robbed of her eggs, does not sulk and quit the business, but throws out a fresh covering for a fresh spoliation. One tree has been known to yield half a ton of corkwood. One hundred weight of cork can be manufactured into 144 champagne corks. The baled cork is sold to cork manufacturing centres.

HE FOUGHT AT WINCHESTER.

AN OLD REBEL SOLDIER FOUND WARM FRIENDS WHEN ARRAIGNED AS A PRISONER.

In the case of the State vs John Stuart, indictment for larceny, the prisoner appeared in the court room, shuffling along, scarcely able to walk He wore a soiled check shirt, a very much worn suit and a battered hat.

Appearing as state witnesses were two well-dressed, sleek-looking men who were determined to send the old man to the penitentiary.

'Has the prisoner any counsel?' asked Judge Philips.

'I have none,' answered Stewart. 'I am a poor man and unable to pay an attorney.'

The judge saw by the man's look that his was an unusual case, and said: 'Well, go on and tell your story.'

'Well, sir, I was in the Confederate army, and at the battle of Winchester I was shot through both hips. Since then it has been exceedingly hard for me to support myself. I went to work for this man last year, upon his word to board and clothe me and to pay me what my services were worth. During that time he paid me ten cents, with which I bought tobacco. At the end of eight months he refused to pay me any money, and refused to give any clothes, saying my services were worthless. Then I went into his wardrobe, took a suit of clothes to hide my nakedness and left. He had me indicted for larceny, and I have been in jail ever since.'

As the old man finished a murmur of indignation was heard throughout the court room.

'You say you were shot at Winchester?' asked Judge Philips, who was himself an officer in the splendid and memorable charge.

'Yes, sir.'

'Were you in the second charge to the left, on the other side of the town?'

The prisoner's face brightened.

'Yes,' he said, 'I was there—Rhodes's division—and was shot while crossing the ravine just below the hill.'

The judge was certain then that the old veteran was telling the truth, but to be certain he called the state's witness.

While this witness was giving in his testimony, which was to the effect that the old man's story was about right, but that he refused to pay him anything because his services were worthless, Stuart leaned over to Solicitor Settle. 'Mr. Settle,' he said, 'your father and I were friends. I lived in Rockingham county, and your father persuaded me to enlist in his company. I received my wound while following him. Since then it has been hard for me to keep out of the poorhouse.'

By this time Judge Philips and Solicitor Settle and everybody else in the court room were satisfied that the old soldier had been pitilessly persecuted, and the faces of the onlookers showed the deepest pity and sympathy for the unfortunate man and the blackest indignation for his employer.

'Mr. Solicitor, said the judge, 'change your bill of indictment from larceny to trespass.' This was willingly done by Mr. Settle.

'Now,' he continued, 'judgment is suspended and the prisoner discharged.'

Scarcely had the word been spoken before every man in the room applauded, and great tears were rolling down the cheeks of strong men. As the old man who, half an hour before had been friendless, hobbled out of the court room hundreds of men drew round him to shake his hand. Our townsman, W B Glen, volunteered to secure him a pension. Mr. Hollyfield offered him a position as miller, and in less than five minutes a purse was made to buy the old soldier a suit of clothes.

ALL SORTS.

'Dear,' said a physician's wife as they sat in church, 'there is Mrs. Goldberg sitting in a draught.' 'Never mind,' said her husband, 'I will cash that draft later on.'

'I can't understand all this fuss about using electricity for executions,' remarked Judge Lynch of Kansas, reflectively. 'Out in our section we have used the telegraph-pole for years.'

Great Lawyer: 'I want you to tell me candidly, did you really shoot the man?' Client: 'Do you suppose that I am such a donkey that I would pay you a $5,000 fee if I was innocent?'

'Is there anything I can do for you?' asked Mrs. Cumso, tenderly, when her husband was suffering from seasickness. 'What do you want?' 'I want the earth,' gasped Cumso, as he again leaned over the rail.

Mendicant: 'Please help a poor blind man?' Kind old Lady: 'Blind? Why, bless me, yes! There's a penny for you' Mendicant: 'Thank ye heartily, ma'am. I know'd the minnit I see ye commin' ye was a kind-hearted ole 'oman.'

Telescope Man: 'Come up, gents, and take a look at the moon. Only ten cents.' Countryman: 'Does it make the moon look any bigger?' T M: Look any bigger! Why, it brings the moon so close that you can read the signs on the board fences'

A GREAT TRIP AT A LOW RATE VIA PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

No uniform body of men presents such a gorgeous spectacle as does the Knights Templar. It is only once in three years that they assemble in a body in one of the principal cities of America, and as they have selected Washington to be the theatre of their triennial conclave this year, the double opportunity to witness the brilliant gathering and to visit the beautiful Capitol City on the Potomac will be offered from every station on the various lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad at one fair for the round trip. The conclave will continue from October 8th to 11th, 1889, and tickets will be sold October 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th, valid for return trip until October 31st, 1889. Returning a stop-off within the limit will be allowed at Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia, Trenton, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Elmira, Emporium, and Corry, as the route of the excursionist may suggest. The occasion will be one of the most enjoyable seasons of the year to visit Washington. Specific rates will be furnished by agents on applicaiion.

A Novel Enterprise.

It is nothing unusual for newspapers to print very full reports of extraordinary events, but they seldom publish elegant books. The Harrisburg, Pa., TELEGRAM, has in preparation an elaborate history of the great disaster at Johnstown, to appear shortly in a sumptuous volume. The work will be written by the editor of the paper, from personal knowledge and thorough acquaintance with the subject and the district. It will embody various features necessarily omitted by earlier publications and be the only accurate description of the terrible calamity that destroyed thousands of human lives. Many portraits and views, engraved by the most eminent artists from original drawings and photographs, will be a special feature: Nothing will be spared to insure the highest literary and artistic elegance. Then the net proceeds from the sales of the work will be applied for the benefit of the Printers, Orphan Children and Aged Men and Women who suffered by the flood. We heartily commend the project to the public, and bespeak an immense demand for the book. It will be well for local canvassers to secure an agency at once, as the book will be sold by subscription.

We Second the Indorsement.

The fact that the Harrisburg, Pa., TELEGRAM is preparing a complete History of the Johnstown Disaster, to be published in an elegant volume, is attracting widespread attention. The book will be superbly printed, richly illustrated, and in every respect a valuable literary and artistic addition to the library. The DAILY NEWS is pleased to indorse the following notable commendation:

COMMENDATION OF PENNSYLVANIA,
EXECUTIVE CHAMBERS.
HARRISBURG, Pa., August 26, 1889.

The publisher, Mr. J. M. Place, having outlined the nature and scope of a proposed book on the Johnstown disaster, which is now in course of preparation, to be written by Mr. J. J. McLaurin. It gives us great pleasure to assure the public, from personal knowledge of the ability of these gentlemen to issue a work of this kind, that it will be a most valuable contribution to the history of the great calamity. The fact that the net proceeds of the sales will be applied to the relief of printers, orphan children and aged men and women who suffered by the flood, is an additional reason why the demand for the volume should be large. The project has our hearty indorsement and should enlist the general sympathy of the American people, whom it will enable to assist a worthy charity and secure a reliable account of the appalling misfortune which overwhelmed the Conemaugh Valley. Very cordially yours

Governor.

At the jeweller's: 'But, Max, don't you think it extravagant to give three hundred dollars for a diamond to wear on my hand?' 'Not at all, my dear, you don't consider how much I shall save on your gloves,'

Driggs: 'So you've rented your new house, have you, Figgs? Got a good tenant?' Figgs (promptly): 'First-class.' Driggs: 'Ah, but how to do you know?' Figgs: 'He's making all his own repairs.'

A gentleman, talking with a young lady, said he had failed to keep abreast of the scientific advance of the age. "For instance," he said, "I don't understand how the incandescent light, used in some buildings and railway carriages, is procured." "Oh, it's very simple!" said the lady, with an air of one who knows. "You just turn a little button over the lamp, and the light appears at once."

The Art of Prosperity.

The Eureka man has been doing for some time past considerable advertising, and as I do not want to get all the good there is in this world, let my brother merchants take a word of advice from me. Some have said to me, "Well, you can afford it, it don't cost you anything." But listen. I do not get it for nothing. The Eureka Grocery store pays for every line of advertising it does, and I have not put a single column into the papers that has not paid two dollars for every one spent by myself or that would have to be spent by any other store in town that would attempt the same thing. And we are now just beginning to reap the full benefit of this labor.

Ask anyone at all acquainted with our business and they will tell you that it is constantly increasing; that it has constantly increased ever since we began, and that our success is due to newspaper advertising. I do not want to be the only merchant in town that can truthfully say that while all around us works are stopping, men rae complaining that work is dull, that the Eureka is the only store whose business is not feeling the depression.

I am conducting three newspapers in this town and I can now speak from experience when I say to you that it will pay you to advertise in these papers; that it will help you much more than your wildest fancy dreams. I will set the Eureka advertisements into the remotest corner to give you the best place, or just the place you want.

People will read the Eureka articles any how, no matter where I place them. Now, believe me, "it is straight," I know it will do you good, and in the light of my own experience I advise you to try it, and if any of your customers want anything you have not got send them to the Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa., and we will supply them, and then look out. You may never get them back again, but if you don't we will blame that on Smith, that is if you are in the grocery trade.

Tell me not that advertising
Is at best an empty dream,
For its charms are more surprising
(and the Eureka man, who has tried it tells you plainly that its effects are far more astonishing.)
Than its dull old-fashioned practitioners could ever deem.

And which ever way thou turnest
Thou will find upon the whole,
Those who advertise in earnest
(Yes, we have only to glance at the most successful firms all over the country to see that those who do the thing properly)
Soonest reach the wished-for goal.

Would'st thou then a lesson borrow?
Would'st thou know the royal way?
Advertise then so to-morrow
(Don't let a little expense deter you; you are merely casting your bread upon the waters, and you will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that each to-morrow)
Finds thee richer than to-day.

Advertise then! No retreating!
Let the senseless crockers rave:
While your heart with hope is beating
(You will always find a lot of people in Bellefonte as everywhere else who are blind to their interests; but while you are making fame and fortune)
They will find oblivion's grave.

Printer's ink will lead the battle—
Printer's ink, the balm of life;
Printer's ink—no din, no rattle—
(No, it does it's work on the quiet; and in the great war of competition which is now going on in this town, when judiciously and thickly laid on, it always)
Leads the van against the strife.

Advertisers oft remind us
We can make success sublime,
Make our pile and leave behind us
(Exactly, that's just where it comes in. We not only expect to feather our own nest, but we at the Eureka hope to provide for the prosperity and well-being of generations yet unborn, and so leave behind us)
What defies the touch of time.

Seeing which, perchance another
Struggling man with weary brain,
Some non-advertising brother,
(A good example is always to be commended, especially in the matter of advertising; and many a struggling business man seeing the secret of our success)
May with wisdom try again.

Advertise then! Up and doing!
So advert a meaner fate,
And, the wiser course pursuing,
(You will find that you will soon be in a position to look the world in the face, if you will only)
Learn to advertise and wait!

Of course, there are many ways of advertising, but we are of the opinion that there is no form or method so effective as newspaper advertising. It goes right into the home, and it goes to stay. I do not suppose that an "add" of "New Spring Goods," put in the paper and never changed the year through would do the work it should. I never tried that method. Such an "add" would have to do its most effective work, at least I should think, in the first three months.

Personally, we have always looked upon such work as a public notice that here is a careless merchant. But if you will take hold of this matter, and give it the same attention that you would or should give any other important matter, it can no do otherwise than pay. I speak to you in the light of a year's experience and "I am giving it to you straight."

A SPLENDID PAGEANT.

Beginning of the Knights Templar Triennial Conclave.

THE OPENING PROCESSION.

Twenty Thousand Were in Line and It Was the Finest Spectacle of Its Kind Ever Seen—Reviewed by President Harrison.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The national capital was in a blaze of glory all day to celebrate the official opening of the twenty-fourth triennial conclave of Knights Templar of the United States. The day was given to pageantry and display, and 20,000 Knights, clad in the panoply of war, amid the symbols of the order, with flying banners and with the step and bearing of knights militant, presented such a templar array as was never before witnessed in the land.

The children were excused from school, the government departments and stores were closed, and business for the greater part of the day was suspended.

The Line of March.

By 10 o'clock, an hour before the procession was to move, it seemed as though the population of the city had deserted its homes and gathered along the route of procession, which, beginning at the Capitol, extended up Pennsylvania avenue past the executive mansion to Washington Circle, and then back through K street to Ninth street, near the Masonic temple, where the grand encampment opened at the close of the parade.

The main body of the procession formed in the streets about the Capitol by 11:30 o'clock and awaited the arrival of the grand encampment, with Gen. Charles Roome, most eminent grand master, and his personal staff in carriages, under escort of the first division.

The knightly escort, with Eminent Sir Myron M. Parker, chief marshal; Sir Knight Harrison Dingman, chief of staff, and a host of Sir Knights as aides-de-camp leading soon approached and halted on the spacious plaza at the east front of the Capitol. A few moments later a word from Chief Marshal Parker put the head of the column of the grand parade and escort of the grand encampment in motion.

A Grand Procession.

Around the columned porticos of the Capitol, down the concreted roadways of the Capitol grounds, under the swaying, overreaching boughs of the autumn tinted trees, the grand procession swept with the stately glide of a gigantic and many colored serpent. It was a flash of color, a gleam of snowy plumes, a glitter of bright steel, and a rhythm of graceful movement.

As soon as the column swept onward, with the firmness and the precision of a machine, up the broad and gayly decorated avenue, the eye grew confused with the number and the glowing brilliancy of its hues.

There were acres of snowy plumes streaming and swaying in the crisp October air like meadows of white lilies. There were miles of gleaming swords, leagues of bright banners that beamed in true knightly splendor of color above the vast and superbly moving host; and to add to the finishing touch to a picture unparalleled in its brilliancy and its beauty, music lent her sweetest charm.

The clear, piercing tone of the cornet, the mellow melody of horns, the drum's deep throb and the fife's shrill cry, all blended with the notes from many other instruments to stir the heart.

The City Gayly Decorated.

If the procession was superb in its magnificence of splendor, the city was gorgeous in its holiday attire, and its quarter of a million of people turned out to give its guests an old fashioned welcome. Every house along the broad avenue was a mass of glowing colored flags of many nations, wreathed in all manner of devices, conjoined with the peculiar insignia of the Knights.

Even the housetops were crowded with people. The various stands erected at the angles of the avenue and the intersecting cross streets were densely packed with human beings.

There have been larger parades in Washington and presidential inaugural processions that numbered more people in line. The grand review in 1865 filled Pennsylvania avenue, one of the great thoroughfares of the world, two successive days from curb to curb, with its quarter of a million soldiers returning home from the war, but no spectacle combining so much that was grand in its proportions and beautiful to the fancy as this Knights Templar parade was ever seen here before.

Reviewed by the President.

Up the broad avenue moved the procession like a forest of black helmets and snow white plumes, till, reaching the treasury, its head wheeled into Fifteenth street, past the building whose columned porches were packed with people, and again up the broad avenue to the executive mansion, where they passed in review before the president. Every hat lifted in honor of the chief magistrate. Continuing westward up the avenue to Twenty-third street—Washington Circle—the procession thence wheeled eastward on the magnificent boulevard of K street. The broad street, straight as an arrow, without a break for more than three miles, packed on each side and lined with a double row of trees, gave the Knights a superb welcome.

The Conclave Opened.

When the head of the procession reached Mount Vernon square, at Ninth and K streets, it halted, and the long train of men was brought to rest. Soon afterward it was again put in motion and the first division formed in open order at the reviewing stand in the square. The remainder of the column passed in review before Grand Master Roome and the other officers of the grand encampment.

After passing this point the vast procession broke into fragments, some of the organizations continuing to their quarters, while others, disbanding in whole or in part, were soon lost in the great ocean of humanity that had gazed and admired and applauded.

The first division, the especial escort of the grand encampment, then escorted the grand master and members to the Masonic Temple, where the first session of the triennial conclave was opened.

Killed by Falling from a Window.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Louis Lutz, of Lutz & Movins, the wealthy importers, who lives with his wife and three children at 52 West Fifty-eighth street, fell out of the second story rear window of his home and was instantly killed. Mr. Lutz has been ill for some time, being subject to fits of melancholia, and, it is said, was greatly troubled over his business affairs.

Caught in the Shafting and Killed.

MALDEN, Mass., Oct. 9.—Everett Chaney, aged 37, employed as engineer at Adams Bros. mill here, was caught in the shafting at the mill and instantly killed. He leaves a widow and one child.

PRESIDENT OF COLUMBIA.

Seth Low Will Accept the High Position Offered to Him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Genial and learned Seth Low, the once "boy mayor" of Brooklyn, is the recipient of a steady procession of callers at his delightful home, Columbia Heights and Pierrepont street, overlooking New York bay.

Mr. Low is a lay delegate to the Episcopal convention, and Monday, while he was in attendance on the convention, his fellow trustees of Columbia unanimously selected him as the successor of the venerable Dr. Barnard as president of the grand old college.

Close family friends of Mr. Low, who were seen by the reporter, said there was no doubt he would accept the office.

Seth Low was born in Brooklyn in January, 1849, and the first five years of his school life were spent in the juvenile high school. In 1866 Mr. Low graduated from the Brooklyn Polytechnic institute, and in 1870 he became one of Columbia's alumni. He stood at the head of his class and divided one of the Greek prizes of the year. A few years were spent in European travel, and in 1875 Seth Low became a member of the mercantile house in Burling Slip of which his father, Abiel A. Low, was the head.

In 1880 he organized the Young Men's Republican club, and was an active figure in the historic canvass for Garfield, in which Brooklyn's Democratic majorities were decimated. A year later, in his 32d year, he was elected mayor of Democratic Brooklyn as a reform candidate. His unexceptionable administration of the city government for the city rather than for the advancement of his party compelled his re-election in 1883.

New York's Work for the World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The second meeting of the finance committee of the World's fair was held in the Chamber of Commerce. There were present Samuel D. Babcock, chairman of the committee; August Belmont, Morris K. Jessup, Eugene Kelly, Jesse Seligman, Elliott F. Shepard, Calvin S. Brice, Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. Pierrepont Morgan, Joseph J. O'Donohue, Herman Oelrichs, William Steinway and J. Edward Simmons, treasurer. The meeting was private. The announcement was made that the chairman of the finance committee and the members of the executive committee were willing that the press should have a copy of the report of the executive committee, with any amendments the finance committee may make to it. The finance committee, however, may insist on the report being withheld until it has been presented to the general committee, which will meet Thursday next.

The League of Heaven and Earth.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Posters are distributed through Chinatown calling for a meeting of the League of Heaven and Earth. The existence of this league was only known to its members, and the issue of the call for the meeting caused much surprise among many of the residents of Chinatown. The league is said to be a powerful one. It was originally formed in China to secure the overthrow of the Tartar dynasty and has been proscribed in that country since the Taepina rebellion. The objects of this league, like the Highbinders societies, are blackmail and vengeance. Its victims are completely removed, no trace of them being left to serve as a clew. Within the last six months half a dozen Chinamen have mysteriously disappeared, and it is believed their removal was ordered by the league. Not the slightest clew to their whereabouts has been discovered.

A SKY SCRAPER.

M. Eiffel Talks About a 2,000 Feet High Tower for America.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A well known London engineer, who was one of the 250 members of the Iron and Steel institute, entertained in Paris last week by M. Eiffel and the president of the French Society of Engineers, gives an interesting account of a conversation he had with M. Eiffel, in which that gentleman gave his opinion of the feasibility of constructing a tower, on the plan of the Eiffel structure in Paris, of such dimensions as are proposed for the tower to be constructed on the site of the New York World's exposition of 1892.

In this conversation M. Eiffel expressed his unbounded confidence that the plan of the Paris structure, with some slight modifications which experience had suggested to him, could be safely adopted for a tower twice its height, and that with this plan a tower of any altitude desired presented no engineering difficulties whatever, but was simply a question of outlay.

If the American exposition committee were ambitious to possess a tower 1,500 or 2,000 feet high, they had simply to provide the funds, and the structure would spring from the ground in nine months after the order was given. Of course great care would have to be exercised in the selection of a suitable site, as upon this would very largely depend the stability of the structure.

When questioned as to whether he would have any professional connection with the construction of the proposed American tower, M. Eiffel said it was too early yet to reach any definite understanding, but he was already in communication on the subject with New York parties.

Democrats Organize.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The executive committee of the Democratic state committee met at the Hoffman house. The corridors were crowded to overflowing by Democratic politicians from all parts of the state. Among the most prominent were Roswell P. Flower, Charles M. Preston of Ulster county, Daniel G. Griffin of Jefferson county, ex-Mayor Cooper and Mayor Grant. The committee organized by the election of Charles R. De Frees of Troy, clerk, and Daniel G. Griffin of Jefferson, chairman. It was voted to have the headquarters at the Hoffman house, as heretofore.

How the New Law Worked.

HARTFORD, Oct. 9.—Two features combined to make the election in Connecticut interesting. It was the first under the new secret ballot system, which is said to be only a modified form of the Australian system of voting. There was also a vote on the prohibition amendment. It was only a local election, no state officers having been voted for. The contest between the friends and opponents of prohibition had been quiet but earnest, both sides having worked persistently from the opening of the campaign until the closing of the polls.

Each of the eight voting places in this city was provided with a book for every 150 voters, from eight to seventeen being used in the different precincts. These were arranged in rows between the entrance door and the ballot boxes. As a voter entered a polling place he procured his ticket from the ticket booth and then passed on to the envelope booth, where he was given one of the official blue lined envelopes bearing the seal of the secretary of state.

Depositing the Ballot.

Entering a double doored booth about four feet square, the voter placed his ticket in the envelope, sealed it, and, passing out of the opposite door, found himself in an inclosure with the boxes and the checkers. Here the envelope was dropped into the slot in the ballot box and the voter then passed out of another door to the street.

The vote today was only about half the full vote, and the envelope system caused little delay in obtaining returns from wards and the towns. This city gives 2,958 votes for license to 1,070 against, and 3,263 votes against the prohibition amendment to 1,010 in its favor.

Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 9.—The intercollegiate lawn tennis tournament was continued with the second round in the singles and the first round in the doubles. The score of the morning games was: Hovey (Brown) vs. Campbell (Columbia), 3—6, 6—4, 6—2. Huntington (Yale) vs. Dean (Amherst), 6—1, 6—3. Post (Columbia) vs. Kingsley (Harvard), 6—4, 6—1. Hurd (Yale) vs. Weeden (Brown), 6—0, 6—0. Doubles—Huntington Brothers (Yale) vs. Taliant and Brooks (Harvard), 6—1, 6—3. Campbell (Columbia) and Wright (Trinity) vs. Sands and Fields (Cornell), 6—3, 6—2.

The Pan-American Delegates.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 9.—The members of the Pan-American congress arrived here at 4 o'clock in the morning and were left undisturbed until 9 o'clock, when a committee took them in carriages through the mill yards and to the Jefferson mill where they alighted, and entering the mill inspected with interest the process of manufacturing different kinds of fabrics. They then reentered the carriages and were taken to the new mill on the west side of the river, in the upper story of which breakfast was served.

A Window Glass Combination.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 9.—The window glass manufacturers of Pittsburg have applied for a charter for the Pittsburg Consolidated Window Glass company. One of the applicants says the object of consolidation is economy. The individual men in the business cannot compete with the proprietors of factories who receive free gas. The business of all the offices will be done in one office and there will be but one manager for three or four factories.

The New French Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Of the new chamber of deputies 287 belonged to the last chamber. The remainder consists of 43 members of former chambers and 239 new men. The gains, both of the Boulangists and Moderates, have been at the expense of the Radicals, who have lost 50 seats. The Moderates are in danger of being outvoted by a coalition unless they secure the support of 30 members of the Right, or 30 Radicals.

Mr. Randall Not Seriously Ill.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9. — Congressman Randall is not in a precarious condition at present, as has been reported. His physician, Dr. Martin, says: "It is true that the statesman has an attack of diarrhea, but it is not serious, and otherwise his health is good. I have just arranged with him to go to Washington on Thursday, and everything is in readiness for the trip."

Fire in Insane Asylum Stables.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The two story brick stables of the insane asylum on Ward's Island were damaged by fire to the extent of $4,000 shortly after midnight. The fire caused much excitement among the inmates of the asylum, but the building was at no time in danger.

MRS. McDONALD IN NEW YORK.

The Chicago Gambler's Erring Wife, Deserted by Moysant, Returns to America.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Michael McDonald, the wife of the famous Chicago politician and gambler, who in July last eloped with the Rev. Father Joseph Moysant, assistant pastor of the Church of Notre Dame there, is believed to be in this city. It is known that Mrs. McDonald arrived here on the Inman steamship City of Chicago on Saturday last, though she came under an assumed name. A reporter went on board the City of Chicago at her dock foot of Barrow street this morning and got full confirmation of the latter statement. One of the officers of the ship said:

"Mrs. McDonald was a cabin passenger on this ship on her recent trip from Liverpool. She was on the passenger list as 'Mrs. Nooney,' but I knew her well as Mrs. McDonald. I knew her husband very well in Chicago in past years. Mrs. McDonald was booked to go to the Fifth Avenue hotel, and I feel sure her baggage was sent there. She was dressed in black and was full of animation."

At the Fifth Avenue hotel the reporter was told that neither Mrs. McDonald nor Mrs. Nooney was a guest there. Neither name was on the hotel registers.

A cable dispatch, dated Paris, was recently received by Mr. McDonald from his wife stating it to be her intention to return to him. Father Moysant was not with her, it is stated, having deserted her shortly after their arrival in Europe.

Mrs. McDonald is a fine looking woman of 44 years. She is the mother of four children. Father Moysant is seventeen years her junior.

On July 24 Mrs. McDonald left her home ostensibly for the purpose of visiting her mother at Tiffin, O. She did not go to Tiffin, but, as afterwards discovered, joined Father Moysant. When she left home she took $250 in money and about $5,000 worth of jewelry.

The Election in Montana.

HELENA, Mon., Oct. 9.—Advices received are that the Republicans have elected their whole legislative ticket in Madis county, one member for which has heretofore been conceded to the Democrats, and also that the Republicans gain one member in Fergus county. If other Republican claims hold good this will make the state senate a tie and the house Republican by from one to four majority. Chairman Seligman, of the Republican committee, still claims the legislature, and does not concede the election of Toole for governor. The official count in Lock county will be made this week, and that will settle the matter of the governorship unless the Republicans should institute a contest, which now seems probable.

A Flood, a Fake and a Bull Fight.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Queretaro states that heavy losses have been incurred in Palomas, Penjamillo and Ahuacatlan by the overflowing of the Pollman river. Three people have been drowned in the last named town. A rumor which was telegraphed out of the country that the Seventy-fifth and Twelfth infantry battalions had been nearly wiped out in a recent battle with the Yaqui Indians is reported by the war department to be a canard. At a bull fight in this city a picador was gored nearly to death by a bull. The same bull killed four horses and ran all the bull fighters from the ring, amid the applause of several thousand spectators.

Mormons Pardoned by the President.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 9.—President Harrison has pardoned Bishop William H. Manghan, of Wellsville, and Charles K. Hall, of Morgan county, two Mormons, who were sent to the penitentiary on the double charge of unlawful cohabitation and adultery. The United States supreme court recently decided that a polygamist could not be convicted of both unlawful cohabitation and adultery with the same plural wife. The territorial courts held that they had no power to release Manghan and Hall after conviction and sentence, and therefore the president was appealed to with the above result.

Appointed by the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The president has made the following appointments:

Cyrus Anderson, of Kansas, to be register of the land office at Oberlin, Kan.

Charles R. Drake, of Arizona, to be receiver of public moneys at Tucson, Ariz.

Struck and Killed by a Train.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—A carriage in which Thomas F. Burbank, aged 56, superintendent of the Bay State Brick company, was driving over a Fitchburg railroad crossing, in North Cambridge, was struck and shattered by the inward bound express. Mr. Burbank was instantly killed. He leaves a widow and two sons. The horse was also killed.

Another Ocean Current.

BREMEN, Oct. 9.—Drs. Kukenthal and Walter have just returned from an exploring expedition in the Spitzbergen archipelago. They report the discovery of an important ocean current flowing from north to south the whole length of Olga strait.

Frosts in the Far South.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 9.—Light frost is reported from all sections of the state.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. .—The frost at Port Gibson and Jackson, Miss., and Alexandria and Bayou Sara, is the earliest for many years.

Labor Men Pass Resolutions.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 9.—The Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor has passed resolutions in favor of reducing the per capita tax from two cents to one cent a month. A special session was ordered at Boston in March, to take action on the plans for an eight hour working day.

A Postal Clerk Injured.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Oct. 9.—The east bound passenger on the Illinois Central collided with a rock train at the junction, a half mile below the Illinois Central depot. The engineers and firemen saved themselves by jumping. Both engines were demolished. A postal clerk was severely injured in the back.

Morgan's Marriage.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 9.—James Morgan, the 82-year-old eccentric citizen of Morgan county who a few months ago advertised that he would give $5,000 for a wife, was wedded to Miss Hettie Wilson, 50 years old. Morgan received several hundred letters in answer to his advertisement.

—It seems to us that the Normal school in Lock Haven is making too many changes in teachers, which is never favorable to any institution of learning. There was the substitution of Profs. Bible and Irish by other teachers at the beginning of the school and now Miss Brooks has been permitted to leave. We have heard everywhere the highest praise of the superior abilities of these instructors, Prof. Irish and Miss Brooks have no superiors. Would it not be well for Dr. Elden, the Principal, to keep around him a very competent and efficient faculty?

A NUMBER of prominent women of Chicago have taken it upon themselves to stop gambling in that city, and began their work by having the proprietor of one of the dens arrested. The penalties for gambling in Illinois are severe, and if the women can get their cases presented ably to an impartial jury they will come near to abolishing gambling. It would be strange if they should accomplish what the men have been talking about doing and trying more or less to do for some time past, but have never done.

A Mirror which Reflects all that is Transpiring at Pine Glen.

PINE GLEN, Oct. 5, 1889.

Mr. and Mrs. Mich. Watson bave gone to Philipsburg.

Mr. Joseph Yothers got a gash cut in his head while assisting to load a threshing machine. Dr. Nevel, of Karthaus, put several stitches in it and says it is not a serious wound.

Mr. James Sankey returned from Potter county and is stopping at the home of Mr. M Veighdorfer. Mr. Sankey visited several of the western states.

Mr. W F Loy has bought a splendid team of horses and is ready for work of any kind.

Mr. Filmore Loy also bought a new horse.

Mr. G R Boak spends most of his time at his new farm in Clearfield county.

Mr. John Eisle, formerly of Philadelphia, is putting a new coat of paint on the Messiah church.

Mr. Samuel Hoover has his house finished and will soon move into it.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hecandom, of Karthaus, spent Sunday, September 29, at Pine Glen.

Mr. Mitchel Watson, Jr., was recently married to a lady living at Reynoldsville. Good wishes all through life's journey.

Miss Laura Zimmerman, the lady who teaches the "Young Americans" at Laurel Run, was married a week after opening school to Mr. Seymore Confer, of Marsh Creek. A very quiet wedding. Now, Emma and Annie, don't you do likewise.

Mrs. Wm. Bows and her daughter, Rhoda, were at Snow Shoe last week.

Mr. Johnson Watson is exploring for coal on Mr. J H Beates' property.

A cousin of Mrs. C H Beats spent a short time in Pine Glen.

Nelse, next time you take baggage to the train don't start so early, and then you will not have to wait until the moon and stars go down.

Rev. Mr. Dise, of the Lutheran church, preached in Messiahs church Sunday, September 29, at 3 p. m.

Rev. Wm. Ebersole, of the Messiah church, delivered a very impressive sermon to a large and attentive congregation the same day at 7 p. m.

Protracted meeting will commenec in the Messiah church on Sunday, the 13th inst. Hope all the members will do all they can to make it a successful meeting.

Quarterly Conference was held in the M E church on Saturday at 3 p. m. At 7.30 p. m. an eloquent sermon was delivered by Presiding Elder Hamlin. The Elder told us to find out our work in the church, fill up the ranks and do our duty, and the church work would then prosper. Communion services followed in the same church on Sunday morning, Rev. Bedford officiating.

Mrs. Cameron, of New Haven, Pa., wife of Rev. Thomas Cameron, of the U. B. church, is visiting friends at Bellefonte, Snow Shoe and Pine Glen.

Miss Lucy Ruple is visiting in Tyrone.

SUNSHINE.

Special Milesburg Mention.

Miss Annabel Denning, of Clearfield, is still a visitor among her friends in Milesburg, but expects to depart on Wednesday.

The young people of Milesburg entertained two gentlemen visitors on Sunday in the persons of James Spence, who formerly lived there and is now at Philipsburg, and Roy Wise, of Houtzdale. They came in a private conveyance.

Mr. Samuel Orris has finished the painting of Mr. John Wagner's house and it now presents an appearance surpassed by no other residence in the town.

The Methodists of Milesburg listened to excellent sermons on Sunday. In the morning they celebrated their communion service, the pastor Rev. Bouse, delivering the sermon. In the evening Rev. Dr. Hamlin preached from Job 19: 25, "For I know that my Redeemer liveth." The collection at both services was much larger than usual.

Mr. Frank Wallace departed for Johnstown this morning to fill some contracts he has taken in that city. Several Milesburg citizens went with him, among whom are his sons, Bruce and Frank, Harry and Walter Smith, George Adams and Will Schroyer.

—A new rapid transit scheme is being agitated in New York and Brooklyn, with the probability that it will be attempted. It seems to be on the principle of the inclined plane. The car will move down an incline at wonderful speed and by motive power will be hauled up the next incline. It will take the coaches from one end to the other of New York in a very few minutes and they will be so constructed that the motion will be scarcely perceptible. If such a scheme is possible any place Bellefonte would seem to be especially adapted for it, for here inclined planes are the rule in every direction.

—Winter apples should be gathered this month throughout the Northern States, and the work should be done before any severe frosts. According to recent reports the apple crop is short in many sections this season, and therefore the more care should be taken to secure all that can be used in the family, marketed, or fed to stock—and the latter is an item worthy of note. Apples intended for market, or for home use, should be carefully hand-picked and properly assorted and packed.

Railroad Progress.

That excellent local paper, the Sugar Valley Journal, keeps us informed as to work that is being done on the Bellefonte and Eastern Railroad. Last week's issue of the paper says:

There is great rejoicing among the people of this place and throughout the valley over the fact that construction work has been commenced on the B. & E. railroad at this place. From parties close to the management of this great project we are assured that when once the work is fully started there will be no delay in pushing it to completion. The people of the entire valley and surrounding country are interested and should not become impatient if the work may not progress as rapidly as they have been led to expect. Great projects like this require much time, money and careful consideration, and consequently move slow. But there are attractions in Sugar Valley and at each end of the road which must interest capital, and we feel that our prospect for a railroad at an early day are very encouraging.

It was just one week last Tuesday since the Italians arrived here to work on the road, and they have done quite a big lot of work already. There are thirty in all with headquarters in Reighard's old log house south of town. Ground was first broken on Wednesday morning following in Kleckner's bottom. About two hundred rods of the main road-bed, including a culvert and side track, has been finished ready for the ties and rails. They are moving westward towards Bellefonte. Next week fifty or one hundred more men will be engaged.

A Triumph for "Old" Education.

Superintendent Savage, of Clearfield county, says in this week's Clearfield Republican:

Dr. Samuel A Baer, well known to many of our Clearfield teachers, was recently elected City Superintendent of Reading, Pa., vice Dr. Z X Snyder, who resigned to accept the Principalship of the Indiana State Normal School. The election of Dr. Baer is regarded as a wonderful triumph for that gentleman, because it is practically a return to the system he represented after five years experimenting with the Quincy system. Dr. Baer served two terms as City Superintendent of these schools and it must be especially gratifying to him to be called upon to reorganize the schools after so much tinkering by the "new education." The people of Reading seem to hanker after "old education" and we are confident they have rested their school interests in friendly and deserving hands.

Passing Events at Milesburg.

The Sons of Temperance will give an entertainment on the evening of Saturday, October 12. It is for a worthy cause and should be well attended. Tickets are 10 and 15 cents.

The public schools are well attended and the Board deserves the thanks of all citizens for procuring such efficient teachers.

Mr. Thomas Boggs took charge of the post-office at this place on Thursday. He is a fit successor to Mr. John Martin, who was a first-class official. Mr. Martin has made a very acceptable postmaster and with Mr. Boggs in charge it is quite certain that the good record of the office here will be continued.

Letter List.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

About the Surprise Party.

THANKS TO THE LADIES.

Mrs. Harvey Benner, in her splendidly successful efforts in preparing the grand feast served to guests on Friday evening on the occasion of Major Harvey Benner's 62nd birthday, was very materially assisted by about a dozen ladies. She desires us to extend her earnest thanks to those who were so kind in this respect. To their help she ascribes much of the credit due to the unusual success and enjoyment of the event.

OTHER GIFTS.

In our list of the gifts to the Major on that occasion we forget to mention two individual presents. Both were moustache cups—one from Mrs. Cyrus Goss and the other from Mrs. John P. Harris. Mr. James Harris wittily remarked that the donors did not forget, in their gifts, that the Major has a fine moustache which must be protected.

THE CANDELABRUM.

That highly ornamented pyramid on which wax candles burned during the evening was emblematic of Major Benner's age. There were exactly sixty-two candles, to correspond with his age. This fact made the ornament the more interesting.

Important to seven out of ten people—The moment constipation begins, that moment the blood begins to be impure and poor, and the system to demand the use of Laxador.

If you want to have your baby healthy and beautiful, four things are necessary: Fresh air, good food, bright sunshine and Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup.

—The Hatfield and McCoy feud in Kentucky continues and bids fair to keep on so long as a Hatfield or a McCoy survives, though they are being killed off quite fast. The latest tragedy in the feud revives them in public notice. A wedding party and the preacher, three in all, were laid low by the murderous bullet. Whether the victims were Hatfields or McCoys we know not, and their personality does not seem to be of much importance. The last accounts are that the perpetrators of this latest murder have not been caught, though two or three of the gangs who committed previous murders are awaiting execution.

—A large number of the generous people of Milesburg performed a most commendable act on Thursday of last week. They prepared and purchased a vast collection of the good and needful things of this life and took them to the home of Mr. Robert Brown. To say it was a timely and appropriate act is but faintly expressing the truth. During the past two years Mr. Brown has been very much crippled with rheumatism and has not been able to do much for himself. The articles given him will go far toward enabling him to be comfortable this winter. Generosity is its own reward.

MALARIA

Literally means bad air. Poisonous germs arising from low, marshy land, or from decaying vegetable matter, are breathed into the lungs, taken up by the blood, and unless the vital fluid is purified by the use of a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, the unfortunate victim is soon overpowered. Even in the more advanced cases, where the terrible fever prevails, this successful medicine has effected remarkable cures. Those who are exposed to malarial or other poisons should keep the blood pure by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—Our friend Mr. Beck, the tonsorial artist, never neglects the courtesies due his patrons and gives them numerous special honors. For instance, what is more pleasing than to be awakened by his tuneful clarionet these mornings? This morning the cold western wind wafted the notes directly into the room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Seibert and they are duly appreciative of the courtesy.

—The Philadelphia Times has commenced to give biographies of the candidates for Governor, at the rate of one each week. Editorially, the Times states that as there are only about forty weeks before the nomination, it is necessary to begin now so as to give them all in time. It promises a biographical notice of Adj't Gen. Hastings at an early date.

Singers from Abroad.

The singers from a distance who will assist in the concert next Friday evening are Mrs. Dr. Gearhart and Mrs. A. A. Witter, of Tyrone; and Miss Effie Hamilton, of Birmingham Seminary. They are unusually excellent. Then remember Prof. Bane, the skillful guitarist, and W. I. Swoope, Esq., who will recite.

A little chap was very much afraid of thunder-storms, and one night, when praying at his mother's knee, being somewhat fearful of an approaching storm, he said: 'Please send us only plain rain this time, if it will do just as well.'

A Reliable Port Wine.

Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, whose Port Grape Wine has such a wide reputation, and which physicians prescribe so generally, was the first in this country to import Port Wine Grape vines from the banks of the river Doura, in Portugal, where the finest old time ports were made, and to plant vineyards of them in New Jersey. His Port, Burgundy and Claret which are now the best wine to be had, have become a great favorite among the fashionable New York, Philadelphia and Wasnington society.

Druggists sell it.

Now laughs the sun; the south-wind blows;
Three merry maids hang out the clothes;
Miranda, Maud, and Madaline;
They hear the village clock ring nine.
Quoth Maud: "Why are we done so soon?
The washing used to last till noon?"
Two rosy mouths in chorus ope,
"Oh! now we use the IVORY SOAP."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Cancer of the Nose.

"My father had cancer and my husband died of cancer. In 1875 a lump appeared on my nose, and from its appearance and rapid growth, I became alarmed with the idea that I, too, had cancer. I consulted my physician about it, and he gave me an ointment to put on it, when this did not relieve me, he then burnt it out, but the place would not heal. It gradually grew longer and worse, and I had fully made my mind up that I must also die of cancer. Friends prevailed on me to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) This I finally consented to do. After taking a few bottles I was entirely cured. Swift's Specific (S.S.S.) cured me when the doctors and all other medicines failed." MRS. W. T. MABEN, Woodbury, Hall county, Texas.

Four Years on Crutches.

For fifteen years I was afflicted with rheumatism, four years of which I was compelled to go on crutches. Words are inadequate to express the suffering I endured during that time. During these fifteen years of existence (it was not living), I tried every known remedy without receiving any benefit. I finally began on Swift's Specific (S.S.S.), which from the first gave me relief, and to-day I am enjoying the best of health, and am a well man. I candidly believe that S.S.S. is the best blood purifier on the market to-day. J. D. TAYLOR, Cuba, Mo.

THE POSTMASTER,

Winchester, Mass., says: I am personally with Mr. and Mrs. Carleton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact that it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in its praise.

Yours truly, GEO. P. BROWN, P. M.

A Dog's Daily Race.

This pretty story comes to us through the Philipsburg Daily Journal. We do not know whether it is pure invention or unadulterated truth:

Near Mount Eagle station on the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad is a "catch" mail station and the man who "catches" the mail bag there daily, when the mail train passes, comes from some place back in the ridges. A small yellow dog that is with the mail carrier everyday furnishes a little excitement for the train hands and the passengers by running a race with the engine drawing the train. The train is usually going at about 30 miles an hour, and the dog keeps up the race for almost two miles. He starts in on his run as the engine passes him and the race ends when the rear passenger coach passes him, which is not until about two miles of track has been covered. Engineer, fireman, baggageman, route agent, conductor and brakesman, all enter into the excitement of the daily race, and the passengers, too, become animated with a desire to see the "yaller" dog keep up his record. Quite recently one of the train men stood on the steps of a passenger car and patted the dog on the back as he ran by the side of the train. The shouts of the train men and passengers apparently has great effect on the dog. After the two miles is reached and he begins to fall behind the train, he makes the trip back to his master at as rapid a speed as when following the engine.

Housersville Happenings.

Our excellent correspondent at Housersville sends us another "batch" of items this week.

The barn of William Dale, Jr., in Benner township, caught fire the other day, while some men were threshing in it. The flames almost reached the roof before they were discovered but were extinguished. Care should be used in threshing and the machines must be kept well oiled.

The farmers in this vicinity are engaged in husking corn.

Messrs. George Shull and Jacob Bottorf received a car load of fine cattle and the stock will improve in their care.

Mrs. Confer, of Roland, who is visiting at her father's residence, is ill at present.

Mr. William Shutt is of opinion that foxes are bad in this neighborhood, as they killed one turkey for P B Wirts and also injured one of his own.

Daniel Walters takes a walk occasionally down to David Houser's to see the goats? How many has he, Dan?

The License not Revoked.

The Teller license case was finally decided by the Court on Monday, and as there is an evident desire to know the result we publish the principal points of the Court's decree.

The court discharged the rule to shew cause why the license should not be revoked. The principal reason given was that the Court does not believe that the prosecution was brought to vindicate the law, but considers that there is enough in it to make the defendent, W R Teller, pay the costs. The rule was discharged with that provision.

FOR OVER THREE MONTHS

my son suffered night and day with rheumatism; so much so that he was unable to feed himself. Your Sulphur Bitters cured him, and I am truly thankful to say they are an honest medicine—MRS W H CARLETON, wife of Deacon Carleton, First Baptist church, Winchester, Mass.

The Sources of Beautiful Colors.

From the Scientific American.

The American Druggist has formulated a list of the choicest colors used in the arts, as follows:

The cochineal insect furnish a as great many of the very fine colors. Among them are the gorgeous carmine, the crimson, scarlet carmine, and purple lakes. The cuttlefish gives the sepia. It is the inky fluid which the fish discharges in order to render the water opaque when attacked. Indian yellow comes from the camel. Ivory chips produce the ivory black and bone black. The exquisite Prussian blue is made by fusing horses' hoofs and other refuse animal matter with impure potassium carbonate. This color was discovered accidently. Various lakes are derived from roots, barks and gums. Blue black comes from the charcoal of the vine stalk. Lamp black is soot from certain resinous substances. Turkey red is mud from the madder plant, which grows in Hindostan. The yellow sap of a tree of Siam produces gamboge; the natives catch the sap in cocoanut shells. Raw sienna is the natural earth from the neighborhood of Sienna, Italy. Raw umber is also an earth found near Umbria and burnt. India ink is made from burnt camphor. The Chinese are the only manufacturers of this ink, and they will not reveal the secret of its manufacture. Mastic is made from the gum of the mastic tree, which grows in the Grecian Archipelago. Bister is the soot of wood ashes. Very little real ultramarine is found in the market. It is obtained from the precious lapislazuli, and commands a fabulous price. Chinese white is zinc, scarlet is iodide of mercury, and native vermillion is from the quicksilver ore called cinnabar.

—Mr. John Kenyon who has been superintendent of the Philipsburg steam heat and electric light service since the beginning of that institution, has severed his connection with it. Mr. K. is so excellant in all that he does that we must consider his separation from that position a misfortune to the service.

"He owes everything he has to me." "That's bad. He owes a great deal more than he has to me."

He: "What did your pater say when you told him we were engaged?" She: "Oh, you must not ask me to repeat such language."

Tailor: "I tell you my friendt, dhose clodhings vil wear like iron!" Upson Downes: "I believe you; they look a little rusty already."

HE IS SIXTY-TWO.

And we Don't Think he will Forget it.

MORE THAN FIFTY FRIENDS VISIT HIM, GIVE PRESENTS AND PARTAKE OF A BOUNDLESS HOSPITALITY.

By "he" we mean Major Harvey H. Benner. Friday was the 62d anniversary of his birth. Having had so many birthdays in his lifetime he had become accustomed to them, and even did such a prosaic thing as to go to the country to trade cows. He came back to town about nine o'clock and went to his attractive home on East High street to enjoy a quiet, comfortable night. Little did he dream that an army had invaded and taken possession of it during his absence.

Hardly had he entered the house, however, when a large number of his gentlemen friends rushed from the room where they were concealed and grasped him by the hand. Although he has never been president of the United States, yet he knows how to shake hands and was not overawed by the company at all. His greeting was as cordial and quiet as if only a few friends had called, but he said that the surprise was complete. Those who knew all about what was going to come were wise in deciding to have the speech-making at once, because in the after events of the evening the phrase "too full for utterance" received literal fulfillment. Mr. James H. Rankin was the orator of the occasion and as soon as a large, handsomely upholstered student's chair had been brought in, he arose to express himself. He told how people delight to honor those whom they love. He extolled the social features of gatherings such as this one. Then he pointed to the easy chair which the G. A. R. comrades and friends had purchased as a gift to Mr. Benner, and told him to occupy it and hoped that it would often serve to administer to his comfort. Then a beautiful crayon portrait representing the handsome features of Mr. Benner himself was produced. It was placed on an easel. Mr. Rankin, continuing his remarks, told Mr. Benner that the portrait was the gift of his admiring relatives, Mr. H C Baney and wife, and the easel was the gift of comrades.

Mrs. Benner knew all about this and enjoyed herself watching her husband's surprise. But she in return came in for a share of the same experience. A beautiful lamp suddenly appeared on the table and as it shed its light through a pink tinted globe Mr. Rankin explained that it was a gift to Mrs. Benner as an acknowledgement of the efforts she had made to render the present occasion a successful one.

H. Y. Stitzer, Esq., replied for both the recipients in very appropriate language.

This ceremony being ended, a few minutes thereafter the entire company were invited to the dining room where two long tables were laden with a feast such as has seldom been equalled in Bellefonte even on the most important occasions. As it is seldom that an editor has opportunity to see such a bounteous collection of good things we were at first lost in wonder, and then we did the best we could to make this wonder lost in us. Cakes of the most exquisite design and workmanship were placed as numerously as they could be on the tables. There were long dishes heaped high with chicken celery and decorated in handsome style. Great bouquets gave gorgeous coloring and glass vessels containing rich stores of oranges, bananas and grapes added to the tempting array. Then there was an unending quantity of cold chicken, added to which were the various condiments which go to make up a feast. But this was not half. The courses commenced with oysters, fried and stewed; warm buscuit, bread and coffee; and then when all the various delicacies we have enumerated were fully discussed, the sumptuous feast concluded with ice cream and cake. There were about sixty gentlemen who partook of this supper and continued eating for two hours, besides about a dozen ladies and attendants, but the supply seemed not to diminish and our impression is that these hospitable people had provided for a large army, and they seemed only distressed that the capacity of the company did not enable them to partake yet more heartily. But we can testify that all the members of the company did there level best. There was Capt S. H. Williams, who has had hundreds of such experiences without once retreating and who repeated his requests for more so frequently as to almost startle us. He confessed that this was about the greatest undertaking of his lifetime. When we left at 12 o'clock ex-Sheriff Dunkle was still eating and only found time to remark that he had already had two hours of perfect happiness and expected to continue on an hour longer. Mr. James Schofield was all smiles. When he smiles he opens his mouth quite wide and each time contrives to make a goodly portion of chicken or cake disappear in the carity. If you want to see Schofield smile in genuine Old Erin style just invite him to a feast. Cigars were passed around after the gentlemen had left the tables.

The ladies to whose credit is principally due the preparation of this truly remarkable feast are Mrs. Harvey Benner, Mrs. H. C. Baney and Mrs. Kate Baney. They proved by Friday night's grand achievement that they have no superiors in the culinary art. We are very sure that Mr. Tom Benner deserves much credit for the skill in which he managed the entire affair.

The house throughout was ornamented with flags. One beautiful ornamentation which requires special mention was a candelabrum—a stand in pyramid shape on which were placed at least fifty wax candles. Between the candles were profuse ornaments of flowers and green, and when the pyramid was lighted the effect was fine, contributing not only beauty but heat.

It was, in every respect, a very successful affair, and we have no doubt that Major Harvey Benner, who has so pleasantly passed the sixty-second milestone of his journey through life, was fortunate in trading cows. We wish for him many more years of good health and happiness and are selfish enough to hope that future anniversaries will be similarly celebrated.

Mighty Niagara and Romantic Watkins.

Niagara! Wonderful handiwork of Nature, thy name alone bestirs emotion, arouses thought, aye, conjures up within one a vague idea of thine immensity, and yet it is only when we gaze upon thee from some commanding situation that the grandeur and sublimity which encompass and enthrone thee are seen and felt in their awe-inspiring entirety. The first view of Niagara can never be effaced from memory. It whets the desire for another and another pilgrimage to the stupendously beautiful, natural picture. For the benefit of the people of Washington, Baltimore, and other stations on the line of the Northern Central Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run a special excursion train of parlor and day coaches to Niagara Falls on Tuesday, October 15th, 1889, tickets good to return until October 24th.

Round trip fare from Washington and Baltimore, $10.00. Proportionate rates from other stations. Watkins Glen will be touched both going and coming and all who may desire to stop off in either direction and visit this romantic mountain gorge will be afforded an opportunity to do so. Train will leave Washington at 7.10 a. m.; Baltimore, 8.20 a. m.

Death of Oliver P. Wilson.

Mr. Oliver P. Wilson of Julian, Centre Co., died suddenly at his home last Thursday evening at 9 o'clock, of heart disease; aged 67 years. He was apparently in perfect health on Wednesday, the day before his death. He was buried on Sunday. His wife, who survives him, was a Miss Elisebeth Myers, sister to William Myers, dec'd., a livery man who resided and did business for years in Philipsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been married forty years and had nine children seven sons and two daughters, who are all living with the exception of one daughter. He was well and favorably known in Philipsburg.—Philipsburg Ledger.

—The English locomotive brought to this country by the Pennsylvania rail road company, is receiving a thorough test on all divisions, and is at present doing duty between New York and Philadelphia. The test point so far developed is its ability to make a run as quick as an American locomotive with less coal. On local business it has not proved so satisfactory on account of its inability to get up speed as quickly as the American type. It is also said to get out of repair much quicker than the locomotives manufactured here and is not so well suited to travel over uneven roads.

Where the Storm Raged.

Last week brought to some parts of the State the severest electrical storm of the season. In Williamsport, on Monday, it was very severe. This one dispatch from Hazleton, Pa., shows how the storm raged in that locality:

A house in course of erection here was struck by lightning, and a carpenter, it is thought, fatally injured. A man using the telephone in Coxe Bros. & Co.'s office, at Drifton, was knocked senseless and badly injured. The gable end of a house in Freeland was torn away by lightning and its inmates severely injured. Andro Slavolsky, of Trusckow took refuge under a tree and was instantly killed by lightning, leaving the imprint of the bark of the tree on his bare arm.

Reports from Sugar Loaf Valley say one man and two horses were killed, and the large barn of Horace Smith, with all its contents, destroyed, and one horse killed. The rain fell here in torrents, the lightning being terrific. In the Western Union telegraph office the operator had an exciting time, the lightning shocking him severely and setting fire to some papers.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism for 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all disease of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co's. Drugstore.

—St. Louis offers the most ingenius argument in favor of holding the Columbus Exhibition and world's fair in that city that we have noticed in connection with any of the efforts made by the several cities which are striving for it. For instance, it has prepared and published a map on which St. Louis, Chicago and New York are the three radiating points for a 500 mile circle of surrounding country. The map shows that within 500 miles of St. Louis in all directions there are 30,484,905 people and a railroad mileage of 77,571 miles. Comparing Chicago with this, there are, in its circle, 27,430,729 people and 54,801 miles of railroad. New York's circle shows only 24,385,707 of population and 34,369 miles of railroad. Consequently, if these important facts are to be considered, St. Louis is far ahead and she states also that her site is the best and that the guarantee fund is $5,000,000. We wish that the St. Louis map had also informed us as to the population and railroad mileage of asimilar circle with Washington as the radiating point. Now it would be the height of irony for Chicago to prepare a similar map with Cairo, Illinois, as the radiating point. That would probably excel even St. Louis in these important particulars and then they could use the St. Louis argument in favor of holding the great exhibition in the unhealthy and desolate region of Cairo.

Love's Web Tightly Spun.

There was a pretty wedding event at the residence of Mr. Joseph Ednison, State College, on Thursday, October 3. The couple who thus solemnly pledged their mutual vows of love and devotion were Miss Hattie Fulton and Mr. Andrew Jackson Hassinger, both of State College, Rev. Mr. Koons was the officiating minister.

There were many friends who assembled to witness the event, prominent among whom we noticed Professor Jackson and wife, the two Messrs. Ray and their wives, Mrs. Augustus Cox and son, Mr. Showalter and wife, I. Dawson and wife, Mrs. John Dawson and Dr. Dale and wife.

All the parties present are unanimous in pronouncing it an occasion of special pleasure, and the congratulations expressed were earnest and cordial: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hassinger deserve a very happy future.

The contents of the jugs amounted to $28 and the entire receipts were $72. The committee having it in charge consisted of seventeen persons and all did well.

WEDDED ON WEDNESDAY.

The Beautiful Marriage Ceremony which United W. E. Gray, Esq., and Miss Ellen Gregg Green.

On Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock the home of Gen. G. Dorsey Green and family was a scene of brilliant festivity. About seventy-five guests thronged the spacious and handsome house. It was to witness a wedding ceremony—a repetition of that scene which is as ancient as the human race and yet is ever new, interesting and beautiful. A young gentleman and a young lady were to be the principal participants. Each endowed with good looks and all other necessary and convenient blessings and each quite popular.

The arrangements of the house indicated a wedding and when the hour arrived, and a brief hush fell on the assembly the wedding party were before them, grouped beneath an arch erected for the purpose and leading from the hall to the sitting room. The bride was Miss Ellen Gregg Green, the beautiful daughter of Gen. and Mrs. G. Dorsey Green; the groom was W. E. Gray, Esq., son of Mr. Samuel Gray, of Buffalo Run, both perhaps too well known to require further introduction. Though attracting most notice, they were not alone, and others who were members of the wedding party shared with them the attention. Two very pretty maids of honor were Misses Rachel Green and Nora Gray, sisters, respectively, of bride and groom. Ushers were William Singer, Esq., and Mr. Allen Green, the latter a brother of the bride. Rev. George Elliott, of Unionville, said the important words which cemented all this fun and festivity into a union of hearts and hands.

The bride is bright and beautiful. She was attired in an exquisite traveling dress trimmed with velvet and moire silk. The groom is a young attorney who had the advantage of excellent educational opportunities and has made good use of them. Both of them show that they have the soundest sense in making such a happy choice of life partners. Presents had flowed in upon them from near and far and the rich, rare and useful collection had the additional merit of being without duplicates.

The wedding feast was all that taste and means could suggest and prepare. It was served bounteously to the entire company and the party hastened to the station to take the Buffalo Run train to Bellefonte. From here, at 8.45, they continued their journey. They will return in a week. The groom has prepared a most beautiful home on Linn street for their occupancy, and thither they will soon repair.

Here are our good wishes to the bride and groom. The sky was clear on their wedding day, the sun shone as brightly as in May, the stars came out as they went on their way, all of which is lucky they say.

Rice enough was thrown after them to bring a double portion of happiness.

What They Resolved.

The Altoona District Methodist ministers have been holding a conference in Tyrone. On Tuesday evening they adopted this temperance resolution without a dissenting voice:

WHEREAS, Both political parties have declared their alliance with the saloon power of this nation by overwhelmingly defeating the constitutional amendment on June 18th last, since which time one has declared in favor of high license and the other against all restrictive legislation, and

WHEREAS, High license provides for the continuance of the liquor traffic and the perpetuity of the saloon, which we as Christians believe cannot be legalized without sin; and

WHEREAS, The recent decision of the supreme court rendered at a time when it was capable of doing the most injury to the cause of Prohibition has destroyed our confidence in the high license policy as a regulator of the liquor traffic; therefore be it.

Resolved, That we earnestly appeal to the members of our church within the bound of the Altoona District not to support directly, or indirectly, any indinal or party in any way engaged with or interested in the liquor traffic.

Fast Run on the Pittsburgh Division.

Johnstown Tribune, October 1: The Atlantic express, due here at 5 27 a. m. made this morning what is said to be the fastest run on record between Pittsburg and Johnstown. It left Pittsburg at 4 o'clock—forty minutes late—and arrived at Johnstown at 5.35—seventy-eight miles in ninety-five minutes, or at the rate of fifty miles per hour. The distance between Bolivar and New Florence—six miles—was covered in five minutes. The train consisted of nine coaches and a baggage car, and was drawn by two engines. The front engine was No. 1,048, Engineer Daley, and the second engine was No. 3 70, Engineer Alex. Pitcairn.

—The public school law now in force in this State provides that the use of profane and obscene language by any pupil shall constitute good cause for expulsion from schools; also that any who shall cut, deface or otherwise injure school houses, fences, or outbuildings thereof, are liable to suspension and punishment, and the parents of such pupil shall be liable for damages for the amount of injury on complaint by the teacher, the amount to be determined by the Directors and collected through the court. The school house is a good place to enforce the law of the State. It is but one step from the school master to the court.

In Memory of Gen. Reno.

All the veterans of the late war who read this paper are interested in the proceedings connected with the unveiling of the monument to the memory of Gen. Jesse L Reno, which took place on the battlefield or South Mountain on the 14th of last month. From the account sent us by Major Austin Curtin we take this report of the opening address delivered by Col. Goddard:

"A pious and a grateful duty has been entrusted to us. An enduring memorial of an intrepid soldier and a noble patriot is completed. The hero, whose services and whose untimely death we commemorate to-day, belongs peculiarly to us—his surviving comrades of the old Ninth Corps, although his deeds and his virtues have become the heritage of the nation for whose preservation he died. As president for the year of the Society of the Ninth Army Corps, under whose auspices this monument, in honor of General Reno, has been placed here, I greet you my fellow soldiers and bid your welcome to this historic spot. It is well for us to come here to these beautiful and peaceful hills, once watered by patriots' blood, and to renew and to strengthen the bonds of duty and of friendship which knit us together so closely during the stormy years of war, a quarter of a century ago. It is well for us to assemble at this place, on this anniversary day and to recall the memory of that knightly soldier who gave up his life here, in the full promise of youthful hope and ambition, that his country might live. He has gone on before us and has joined the ever increasing throng across the river. He has been mustered into another greater and grander than any under mortal commander, "The innumerable host of angels clothed in white." Let us, his surviving comrades, reverently and tenderly and lovingly place here upon the spot where he yielded up his mortal life, the rosemary of remembrance; and pray that his heroic soul may rest in peace and hope."

Death of an Aged Lady.

Mrs. Maria Brown, of Milesburg, died September 30, 1889, aged 72 years, 10 months and 28 days. In her death the family has lost a kind, loving mother; the community an upright, conscientious citizen. Mrs. Brown joined the M. E. church at the age of 20, since which time she has lived a consistent member of the same. She was always found at the house of worship until failing health prevented her. She always desired to talk of God and His love. While we see the vacant chair, we fully realize our loss to be her eternal gain. She leaves two sons and two daughters who are plunged into deep sorrow.

We shall miss thee from our home, dear mother,
As we see thy vacant chair.
We shall miss the sunshine of thy love—
Thy kind and loving care.

We shall miss thee at evening, dear mother;
Shall miss thy voice in prayer;
Shall miss thee from the house of God—
Ah, yes, we'll miss thee everywhere.

The Four New States

Of the four new States which have been received into this Union, the elections of Tuesday show that three are Republican and one Democratic. North and South Dakota and Washington are Republican and Montana Democratic. Prohibition was successful in South Dakota, but was defeated in the other States. The balloting was conducted on the Australian system and was done so rapidly as to surprise everybody.

—The very extensive alterations to the residence of Mr. F W Crider on Linn street are progressing, but it will be some time before they are all completed and the house will stand out in all its beauty. The residence will expose a most elegant exterior to the view of persons walking in that direction from town, sweeping back quite a great distance. The view from that high window at the top of the house will, we imagine, be very fine.

—The Methodists of Roland and vicinity had a sociable on Wednesday night at the residence of Mortimer W McClintick. There were fifty people present and a general good time was the result. Indeed, it is very seldom that people enjoy themselves so much as this company did. There was cake, ice-cream and lemonade for refreshments. All was excellent.

—A fire was narrowly averted on Wednesday afternoon. It was started by an explosion of gas in the cellar beneath one of the store rooms in the Crider Exchange. The flames were very difficult to get at and suppress, but they were extinguished without giving a general alarm, although the occupants of the entire block were much excited.

—Now the forest foliage is donning the bright colors which make the mountain sides a spectacle of glory. They may not be as bright this year as usual, because the drier the climate the gayer are the leaves, which probably accounts for the fact that in the United States the autumn foliage is much more beautiful than it is in England.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

Mr. Isaac Maitland and Miss Minnie Garman Married Thursday Evening.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE, A BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY AND A JOYOUS OCCASION.

The most brilliant of Bellefonte weddings for the year 1889 was that of Thursday evening at the home of Mr. Daniel Garman on High street. It was given unusual eclat by the presence of about one hundred and twenty-five guests from Bellefonte and all the interior and eastern cities of the State, by the elaborateness of the preparations and all the circumstances associated with it. The weather was favorable. The golden glory of an October evening faded into night and the electric light and the stars had come out when the guests had all assembled.

Perhaps there is no home in Bellefonte better suited for a large gathering than Mr. Garman's residence. The first floor is an extended suite of rooms, and when the doors are all open it affords a most inviting and extended promenade. The large number of guests did not seem to crowd the house.

The parlor and adjoining rooms were tastefully decorated with ivy over the windows and thick clusters of smilax over the pictures. The crimson glory of autumn leaves, massed in the fire place, produced an artistic effect and roses added their rich beauty and fragrance.

The bridal party marched the entire length of the suite of apartments. First came two young ladies—Miss Candor, of Lock Haven, and Miss Lumley, of Williamsport, who opened a passage way for those who followed by extending behind them on each side a wide ribbon, the color of the ribbon corresponding with that of the ladies dresses—Miss Lumley with lavender and Miss Candor with white. In the eastern parlor, near a table, stood Rev. J. O. Davis, the officiating clergyman. Miss Candor at the piano executed Wagner's Lohengrin wedding march. First came the ushers—Mr. Jerome Harper and Mr. Will Garman, the latter a brother of the bride. Mr. Isaac Maitland, the groom, with his best man, Dr. Walter Hertz, followed. Third in the order of procession was Miss Rebie Garman, the bridesmaid and a sister of the bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Ira D. Garman, who was the groomsman. Finally came the bride, Miss Minnie Garman, accompanied by her father, Mr. Daniel Garman. The skillful arrangement made space there for them to group themselves very prettily and—most thoughtful and exquisite of all—was the fact that at the left of the party was placed a large portrait of the deceased and beloved mother of the bride who thus in life like semblance looked on the daughter's marriage with eyes which seemed to bestow a blessing on the happy and fortunate young couple. The picture was heavily draped with smilax.

The bride wore an exquisite costume of the new chocolate shade of faille Francaise, trimmed with dotted tulle. It was of walking length and cut decollete. She wore tan gloves and carried a bouquet of La France creme roses and maiden hair. Miss Rebie wore a gown of the same material of old rose shade, trimmed with velvet ribbon of a deeper shade, and carried a fan. The Episcopal marriage ceremony was brief and beautiful and then the relatives and friends hastened to express their congratulations. The refreshments were served and were exceedingly elegant. The attendants did the honors of the occasion in serving refreshments to the guests as they occupied seats in the rooms where they happened to be at the time. There was space enough for all to be served very comfortably. A pretty innovation in serving the ice cream was in having it placed in square bricks covered with lace paper napkins. Among the guests present were Misses Bessie and Rena Candor, of Lock Haven; Miss Jennie Haas and Mr. Chapin, of Milton; Miss Lumley, of Williamsport; Mrs. Dr. Garman and Mrs. Harry Garman and son, of Coatesville; Mr. T. M. Maitland and family, Mr. Isaac Barton Mr. Lehman, Mr. Baner and family and Allen Schroyer, of Williamsport; William Killian, Mr. Rodgers and family and Mrs. Fahnestock of Sunbury.

The presents were displayed in a room upstairs and were useful and elegant, including articles in gold and silver too numerous to enumerate all. But the array which filled the room, did not represent all, as many of the more valuable were sent direct to the groom's home in Williamsport. Neither did the present of the bride's father appear. It was a handsome parlor suit and a princely sum of money.

The evening train conveyed them on their way to Washington, D. C. They were accompanied by several of the guests. Other guests remained to dance and spend the evening very enjoyably.

When Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Maitland return they will go to housekeeping in a house of their own in Williamsport. It is not necessary to refer again to the bride and groom. All our readers know her as a bright, unassuming and accomplished young lady, the possessor of every qualification necessary to usefulness in life. The groom is also very well known here, and in character and deportment is unexceptionally excellent. Every augury is favorable to their happiness in life which we shall be most desirous of seeing realized.

Wedding in the Catholic Church.

Mr. Patrick Gerrity and Miss Mollie Dowling were married in the Catholic church at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Miss Sarah Dillon and Mr. John McAffrey attended the happy couple as brides maid and groomsman. Rev. P McArdle officiated. The entire wedding party presented a very pretty appearance. They departed on the evening train for Williamsport. Both bride and groom are most estimable young people. Mr. Gerrity has for a long time been employed in Mr. Crider's planing mill and is very faithful and efficient. He will make a model husband, such as the fair bride most certainly deserves. Miss Dowling is a very lovely and attractive young lady. She has been a compositor on this paper and later was the book-keeper in the business office, thus being associated with this paper for a long period. Knowing the fair bride so well and the groom being known by all his acquaintances as a young gentleman of the highest reputation, we can and do most sincerely congratulate them and hope their future will be very happy.

To Our Neighbors.

The question is often asked by our neighbors, "Where I wonder, can I get a pure stimulant?" It is a fact that there is scarcely a roof under which you can not find a stimulant of some kind. Old people prolong life with it; sick people have it to sustain life; well people may and do use it to make life more enjoyable, but where will we advise our readers to buy it? We learn from the most reliable source that Max Klein is one of the most popular and respected citizens of this country. At his home his word is taken unhesitatingly. To him we can cheerfully recommend our readers for anything in the liquor line. He authorizes us to say that for $1.00 you can buy one quart of six year old rye, or six quarts for $5.00. His "Silver Age" at $1.50 per quart is without doubt the best whiskey know. Send for price list and complete catalogue. His address is, Max Klein, 82 Federal St., Allegheny, Pa.

The Profits.

Some one who claims to be posted, thinks the picnic cleared about $1,000. There were 200 State tents which rented for an average of perhaps $3, would make a total rental of $600. Then the income from boarding and ice cream privileges and exhibitors may amount to perhaps $600 more. The expenses scarcely ran over $200, The freight on tents is said to have been $90. The labor on the ground perhaps another $100. We suppose the state charges for the use of its tents, as it would not likely allow them to be used for private profit without compensation, either here or at Williams grove, neither would the fair-minded gentlemen at the head of these gatherings expect it. Whatever is paid the state for the use of the tents, would have to be deducted from the proceeds, and cut down the net profits to perhaps $800.

All the boarding and other stands no doubt came out with considerably more than expenses.

Our informant alleges the flying jenny only took in about $370, 5 per cent. of which went to the picnic management; this would not have been very fat—we think the concern took in more nickles than that. A son of Col. Thomas is said to be a half owner in the flying jenny. —Centre Reporter.

KISSED ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE.

"You scoundrel," yelled young Jacob Green
At his good neighbor Brown,—
"You kissed my wife upon the street,—
I ought to knock you down."

"That's where you're wrong," good Brown replied,
In accents mild and meek;
"I kissed her; that I've not denied
But I kissed her on the cheek—

and I did so because she looked so handsome—the very picture of beauty and health. What is the secret of it?"

"Well," replied Green, "since you ask it, I will tell you; she uses Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I accept your apology. Good night."

An unhealthy woman is rarely, if ever, beautiful. The peculiar diseases to which so many of the sex are subject, are prolific causes of pale, sallow faces, blotched with unsightly pimples, dull, lustreless eyes and emaciated forms. Women so afflicted, can be permanently cured by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; and with the restoration of health comes that beauty which, combined with good qualities of head and heart, makes women angels of loveliness.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. It is a positive specific for leucorrhea, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb.

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — ALCOHOL

PURELY — DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA — VINEGAR BITTERS

EUREKA

The Only Non-Alcoholic Vegetable Medicine put up in Liquid Form ever discovered.

It is not a vile fancy drink made of rum, poor whisky, or refuse liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, but a purely vegetable preparation, made from native California herbs.

Twenty-five years' use have demonstrated to millions of sufferers throughout the civilized world, that of all the medicines ever discovered Vinegar Bitters only possesses perfect and wonderful curative effects upon those troubled with the following diseases, viz:

Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Neuralgia, Headache, Boils, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Jaundice, Gout, Piles, Biliousness, and all other diseases arising from blood impurities, and as a Vermifuge it is the best in the world, being death to all worms that infest the human system.

It is always safe to take at any time, or under any condition of the system, for old or young or for either sex. It is put up in two styles. The old is slightly bitter, and is the stronger in cathartic effect. The new style is very pleasant to the taste and a perfect medicine for delicate women or children. Each kind is distinctly marked on top of cartoon.

Many families keep both kinds on hand, as they form a complete medicine chest.

As a Family Medicine, for the use of ladies, children and men of sedentary habits, the New Style Vinegar Bitters has no equal in the world. It is invaluable for curing the ills that beset childhood, and gently regulates the diseases to which women at every period of life are subject.

Ladies, get a bottle from your druggist and try it. If your druggist has not the New Style Vinegar Bitters, ask him to send for it. If you once try it you will never be without this priceless remedy in the house.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

The only Temperance Bitters known. It stimulates the Brain and quiets the Nerves, regulates the Bowels and renders a perfect circulation through the human veins, which is sure to restore perfect health.

GEO W DAVIS, of 169 Barrone St., New Orleans, La., writes under date May 26th, 1888, as follows: "I have been going to the Hot Springs, Ark., for fifteen years for an itching humor in my blood. I have just used three bottles of Vinegar Bitters, and it has done me more good than the springs. It is the best medicine made."

JOSEPH J. EGAN, of No. 75 West St., New York, says: "Have not been without Vinegar Bitters for the past twelve years and consider it a whole medicine chest in our family."

MRS. MATTIE FERGUSON, of Dryden, N. Y. says: "Vinegar Bitters is the best medicine I ever tried; it saved my life."

T. F. BAILEY, of Humboldt, Iowa, says: Vinegar Bitters cured me of paralysis ten years ago, and recently it cured me of rheumatism."

Local Department.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY—A GOOD GIRL to do general housework. Work light and wages good. Reference required. Apply at 41 East Lamb St., or at this office.

—Autumn leaf excursions are in order.

—The moon was briliiant on Tuesday night.

—Sunday night's cold wind was a forcible indication of winter.

—The window glass workers have been granted an advance of 5½ per cent.

—Milesburg is just now the temporary home of many visitors from a distance.

—The new Odd Fellows building in Tyrone will be dedicated on the 15th inst.

—Mr. F. B. Stoyer's residence is blossoming under the influence of fresh paint.

—The park behind the Court House presents a very pretty appearance at present.

—Young ladies should set a good example as the young men are always following them.

—Chestnuts are putting in their appearance, and the contents of some of them are as usual quite lively.

—The Pennsylvania railroad employees are no longer "white caps." They have donned their winter caps of blue.

—Mr. Isaac Haupt cultivates some very fine apples as we were made aware by a gift of a few of them Tuesday evening.

—Apropos of the season, it is well to know that a solution of salt and vinegar will clean the blackened isinglass of the stove.

—Mr. John Bair is about to open a restaurant in the basement room beneath Gillam's shoe store on Allegheny street.

—The new gas plant experimented with at the Nail Works has proven very satisfactory, except that the flame is too short for boiler firing.

—The girl whose father keeps a grate fire in the parlor, a barrel of apples in the cellar and has no watch dog will be quite popular this winter.

—Geo. T. Rice, the aeronant, was drowned in Indianapolis the other day. It was his 100th ascension, but the balloon desended in the river and Mr. Rice was drowned.

—The worst indication we notice this fall is that most of the weather prophets predict a mild winter. There could not be a more certain evidence of a very cold season.

—The Synod of Pennsylvania, a body of delegates from the various Presbyteries of the Presbyterian churches in this State, will convene in Altoona on Thursday evening, the 17th.

—Judge Rhoads has not only laid a new pavement in front of his four pretty little houses on Lamb street, but he has also built new fences, which greatly improves their appearance.

—Again the churches and Sunday-schools have gravitated around to their regular fall and winter programme, viz., the evening service begins at 7 o'clock and Sunday-school at 2.30 p. m.

—The West Chester State Normal school, which professes to be the leading one in the State, has 500 students this year. Among the names we notice that of Miss Justia Hoy, of this county.

—The Protestant preachers in New Brunswick are becoming frightened. Several of them have received packages of confectionery containing strychnine. Come now, don't attempt to kill off the ministers.

—Mr. James Huey, an inmate of Willow Bank House, died on Thursday of last week and the funeral occurred on Saturday morning. Mr. Huey has long been a resident of Bellefonte and was quite well known.

—Some important improvements are being made at the steam heat works. A new boiler has been put in so that the company will be prepared for emergencies. It is not used now, but may be when the severe weather of mid-winter is here.

—A most excellent concert is to be given in Lemont this (Thursday) evening for the benefit of the Presbyterian church of that place. Several of Bellefonte's best musicians will take part, among them being E M and John Blanchard, Esqs. W I Swoope, Esq., will also give dramatic recitations.

—Every citizen who changes his residence, moves from one borough or township to another, or from one ward to another between now and Nov. 5th, loses his vote, and voluntarily disfranchises himself. The Constitution requires every voter to reside at least sixty days in the election district where he offers to vote.

—Agent Ed. Norris, of the Louisville and Nashville line, is the sort of a man to have in a mail car. When two armed robbers entered his car the other night, he resisted. He wrested the revolver from one of them and coolly pitched the other out the window. Don't promote Norris. Keep him where he is at a good salary.

A SAD AFFLICTION.

Death of a Little Girl—Several Citizens Moving from Snow Shoe—Some Business Booming, etc.

SNOW SHOE, Oct 7, 1889.

J I Yarnell, our new postmaster, attends to business very carefully, and is very accommodating to the patrons of the office.

Mr. Delon Stewart, of Pine Glen, visited Bellefonte on Monday.

Mr. Daniel Thomas is driving delivery wagon for Mr. William Lucas.

Our supervisors have succeeded in getting the roads in this locality in very fair condition.

The recent hard frosts have had a charming effect on our forests, deftly yet beautifully changing the green leaves into all the colors imaginable.

Mrs. John Temple, of South Carolina, while visiting friends at Snow Shoe, was accompanied by her bright-eyed little daughter, aged about four years, who was suddenly stricken with diptheria, died September 27 and was buried the following Sunday in the Askey graveyard. The parents left for their far-off southern home a few days ago, having been compelled to leave the body of their child at Snow Shoe. Because of the disease being contageous, the Penna. Railroad Company refused to carry the corpse.

Pheasant and squirrels seem quite plentiful. W R Haynes one of Snow Shoe's most successful hunters, bagged several dozen handsome pheasants last week and shipped them to Landlord Teller of the Bush House.

Michael Shank, who has found profitable employment helping to rebuild the ruined city of Johnstown, visited his family last week. He has made arrangements to move his family there next week.

Miss Esther Leathers and her brother, Wilbur, of Mt. Eagle, drove to Snow Shoe on Saturday morning and spent a couple of days visiting relatives in this place.

Mr. C M Shunkweiler and family moved to Coalport last week, where they recently purchased themselves a house.

Mr. Daniel Reed and family moved to Olanta, Clearfield county, last Wednesday, where Mr. Reed has obtained steady work in the mines.

Miss Effie Lucas, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. James Stott, of Bellefonte, has returned home and Levi looks very well pleased about it.

Mrs. William Lucas' garden beats any garden in Snow Shoe. In fact, there is nothing in it but beets.

Last Thursday morning Mr. Harvey Witherite, the fattest man in Snow Shoe township, moved to Crider's lumber camp, in the mountains back of Mill Hall, where he expects to be engaged for some time in superintending a lumber establishment for P. B. Crider & Son.

Mr. Harvey Harm, one of the busy clerks in T. B. Budinger's store, is on a week's vacation hunting squirrels and pheasants on the Muncy mountains.

Miss Bridget Smith & Co. have opened up a general store in the Stewart building.

A concert was held in the Presbyterian church Saturday evening. There was a full house and everyone was well pleased with the entertainment.

Mr. T. B. Budinger is building another addition to his store. He will soon have to quit building or buy another lot.

Mr. Wm. Poorman has almost finished his new house.

Miss Laura Lucas will attend Dickinson Seminary this winter, and of course the Doctor will be very lonesome.

Three young ladies were taken into full membership at the M. E. church last Sunday evening.

There are several cases of diphtheria in Snow Shoe at present.

They have had quite a series of breakdowns at Hopkins & Weymouth's mill.

A Meeting of Council.

Borough affairs cannot be said to be at all active just now, and the little that is done by the borough council at its meetings hardly requires notice. If some one would only get up a contest for the Presidency of council it would perhaps arouse a slight interest.

At the meeting Monday evening Mr. George Potter served as President pro tem. Not a citizen was present to ask the council for anything; neither had anyone written a request or complaint. The Street Committee reported some work which had been done—the substantial crossing on High street from Harris' hardware store, and from P. G. Meek's residence to the railroad property; the covering of High street with broken stone and the temporary grade for the east end of Bishop street.

It was the Fire and Police committee which reported electric light put in the lockup and the receipt of nozzles ordered for the hose of the fire companies.

Market receipts $6.90.

Several complaints were made concerning bad boardwalks and a long list of names was read, who will be ordered to repair boardwalks or gutters in front of their respective properties, all of which must be done before November 1.

The financial report was the best read for some time, the amount due the borough treasurer being only $191.73.

New Music for our Readers.

The REPUBLICAN to-day contains a beautiful piece of new music sent expressly to this paper and which no other paper in this vicinity can publish. It will be followed by others equally good. All that will be published will be of the most attractive description. None of it will be severely classical, because that would not suit the average musician, but each selection will have the merit of freshness and beauty. The editor of this musical department is Mr. John DeWitt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., well known in this vicinity and a personal friend of "ye editor." He is also a composer of music. We believe that this department of the paper will be especially appreciated by the ladies. Give us your judgment of the piece printed to-day.

An Employe of Collins' Furnace Instantly Killed.

On Saturday afternoon at about five o'clock a fatal accident occurred at the Collins Brothers' iron furnace. An Austrian who filled the position of top filler was loading coke into the furnace. He stood on the elevator and when the cage came up with its load of two barrels of coke he stepped on the cage to empty the coke into the top of the furnace. His weight combined with that of the coke sent the cage down. The cage is provided with what are known as "dogs" or catches, which prevent the cage from descending rapidly. They, from some cause, did not perform their service on this occasion and the cage with its human freight came down. The man was crushed between the barrels. His arm was broken and one side crushed in. Death was instantaneous.

The managers at the furnace inform us that they do not know his name. He was an Austrian and had been working at the furnace only about two months. They believe that he was an unmarried man. The affair was a very sad one. The man was buried on Sunday.

—Preparing for winter is one of the imperative duties of the farmer which should be performed in this latitude before the close of October. The dwelling should first be put in order to assure the comfort of the family, and then provision be made for the shelter and warmth of live stock. Economy and comfort alike demand the exclusion of biting frost from the habitation of man, and the due protection of his domestic animals in Winter. A warm, comfortable house, a good wood-shed well filled with seasoned fuel, a cellar frost-proof and well stored with garden vegetables, choice Winter apples, meat, butter and lard, are things to be thought of in October. Thus prepared the farmer and his family ought to enjoy the long evenings and comparatively leisure days of the hibernating season—the season for recreation and mental improvement. An ample supply of good books and periodicals should be provided for the entertainment and instruction of the various members of the household, while all fathers of families should watch the district schools and see to the education of their children.

—Before Seeley Hopkins, the murderer of his wife and mother-in-law in Philipsburg, committed the deed, he bought a pint of whiskey and was either drunk or getting off his debauch when he fired the pistol that ushered two souls into eternity. The liquor was bought at a hotel in Houtzdale and the murderer saw the "necessary" in his case of maddening his brain with the fiery liquor before he could do the shooting. And yet Pennsylvania wants to license saloons by a large majority. If Hopkins lives, Centre county will have a murder trial that will cost more than it will receive in liquor licenses for years.—Huntingdon Semi Weekly News.

The Lutheran Sociable.

On Thursday evening of this week the monthly church sociable of the Lutheran denomination will be held at the home of Mr. Lemuel Markle, a short distance east of town. The fact that the moon is now in its beauty will make the evening very pleasant for going to or returning from Mr. Markle's house. Ice cream, cake, coffee, bananas, etc., will be served by the ladies and there will be many features of interest in the arrangement for which the ladies of this church are very skillful. Members of the congregation and their friends are cordially invited to be present.

—Three weeks or a month ago Mr. Isaac Haupt attended service in the basement of the Methodist church and, by mistake, brought away the wrong straw hat. He don't wear his best hat all the time and became certain of his mistake only a few days ago when he put the hat on to take a short trip away. The hat he now has is better in quality than the one he left. He says if the person who got his hat will call on him with it he will cheerfully exchange for his own as, under the circumstances, he does not feel at ease in wearing a good hat belonging to another person.

Two Deaths.

MRS. ISAAC BANEY.

On Monday Mrs. Baney, wife of Isaac Baney, who lives on the street back of Logan street, near the reservoir, passed calmly away. She was a young woman, her name before she was married, being Miss Maggie Scanlon. She was a sister of Mrs. Arthur Taylor, of this place. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Burial in the Catholic cemetery.

MR. GEO. W. RHOADES.

At 10 minutes of 10 o'clock on Monday night Mr. George W. Rhoades died at his home on Half Moon hill. He was about 42 years of age and had lived in this vicinity about 20 years. He was a German by birth, and was born at Baden in that country. He leaves a wife and one child. He was a religious man and his last hours were extremely happy and peaceful. The funeral will take place this morning at 10 o'clock.

When Mr. Rhoades first came here he was a cabinet maker and was employed by Mr. Henry Harris, the undertaker. For many years he has been employed by Mr. John Brachbill at the latter's furniture manufactory. Everybody speaks in highest terms of the deceased. We also learn that he has a sister and a brother living. He owned sufficient property to leave his widow and daughter in comfortable circumstances.

Concert Programme.

The concert to be given in the Court House next Friday evening will be delightful. The following programme will be rendered;

Vocal solo—"Staccato Polka," Mulder, Mrs. Dr. W Gearhart. Pianist, Mrs. A A Witter.

Chorus—Auld Lang Syne.

—Now that the season for firing furnaces and other apparatus for heating our dwellings is on, it would be well to look out for defective flues, which are held responsible for many serious home disturbances, even if a fire does not actually occur. The chimneys, the drafts, the ventilation, the stove and steam boiler and pipes should be given a thorough overhauling. By precautions in these directions it is possible to avert what might prove serious calamity during the winter season. Make them secure at the beginning and all will be well.

—City, county, borough and township school officers should not lose sight of the fact that under a recent act of the legislature, no tax levied by them can remain a lien on real estate longer than two years from the time of the assessment, unless the same is recorded in the prothonotary's office, and no lien so entered shall remain a lien for a longer term than five years, unless the same is revived and continued by a writ of scire facias within the said period and duly prosecuted to judgment.

Startling Tragedy at Milton.

Last Friday what is likely to be a fatal stabbing affair occurred at Milton, Pa., the parties being very prominent people. John Oberlin, a merchant tailor, got into a quarrel with his brother-in-law, Charley Cox, and stabbed him in the stomach. Mrs. Cox interfered, and was also seriously wounded. Charley Cox, is a brother of Daniel Cox, Esq., one of the most prominent attorneys in that place. It is believed that the wounded man will die.

—It is a great mistake to suppose that those who are far above us in the worlds hotch-potch arrangement of seats are happier than we. Everyone looks forward to brighter and happier times. The rich, the poor, the lowly, the lordly must each pay tribute to despondency and, at times, kneel submissively at the feet of grief. Even though we quaffed the wines of the gods, we would find them tasteless or bitter at times.

Personal Pencilings.

Dr. R. L. Dartt is recovering from quite a severe illness.

Mr. Amos Lucas, of Philipsburg, was in Bellefonte on Monday.

J. W. Gephart, Esq., transacted business in Pittsburgh on Monday.

Mr. Scott Harris, of Hastings, Pa., is making one of his rare visits home.

Mr. Sigmond Joseph is reported to be ill. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Prof. D. M. Lieb has been confined to the house with illness for a week past.

Mr. Hamill Boal, while hunting the other day, secured thirty-one fine squirrels.

Miss Sadie Jamison, of Spring Mills, is the guest of Miss Sue Swyers, of Milesburg.

Mr. Harry Keller, of Harrisburg made his appearance in Bellefonte on Wednesday.

Mr. Chas. Goldthwaite, of Galveston, Texas, is a student at the Bellefonte Academy.

Miss Lyda Furey, of this place, is visiting her brother Mr. Milton Furey of Lock Haven.

Rev. Ed. Everett Hoshour has promised to conduct the Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday.

Mrs, Watson, wife of Mr. Joseph Watson, of Milesburg, departed on Saturday to visit friends in the West.

Mr. Clell Bamford and Mr. G B Brandon tried their luck at shooting squirrels the other day, securing twenty-six.

Mr. Harry Green has been ill at his home in this place several days. His illness is the result of an unusually severe cold.

The Misses Jennie and Bertha Jacobs and Laura Bathurst, all of Roland, paid this office a pleasant visit on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Dwyer, founder and editor of the Renovo News, has accepted the position of managing editor of the Williamsport Republican.

Miss Emma Sheets, of Wolf's Store, this county, has had to leave Lock Haven for her home because of the malaria in the latter place.

The Northern Tier Gazette, published at Troy, Pa., advocates the nomination of Lieut. Governor W T Davies, of Bradford county, for Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Minsker, of Curtin street, are making preparations to move to Philadelphia, where they will go to reside with a daughter.

G. W. Rees, the librarian of the Y. M. C. A. of Bellefonte, will attend the State Convention at New Castle, which begins on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Dr. Garman, of Coatesville, is a visitor in town at the residence of Mr Daniel Garman. She came to attend the Maitland-Garman wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gerrity returned from their wedding tour Tuesday evening and went to housekeeping in their own house on Logan street.

Miss Sue Jack, of Boalsburg, was in Bellefonte on Monday evening, and continued her journey next morning to Pittsburgh, where she will visit friends.

Miss Frances E. Willard, President of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, celebrated the 50th anniversary of her birthday on Saturday.

Mr. Harry Schroyer has received the order for carpeting the new Catholic church and will be as busy as a beaver the rest of the week in putting it down.

Mr. B. M. Campbell, who while in Bellefonte was the leader of the Fillmore band, has been quite ill since going to Defiance, Ohio, and expects to return to Bellefonte soon.

Gov. Beaver came home on Friday evening. He spent part of Friday in Lock Haven and while there thoroughly inspected the work on the new Normal School building.

Miss Emma Copelin, of Philipsburg, after taking in the sights at the State Fireman's parade at Carlisle, visited friends at Harrisburg and is now visiting friends in Tyrone.

Rev. Miles O. Noll has now been formally elected pastor of the charge consisting of the Bellefonte and Zion Reformed churches, but will not take charge until May of next year.

Prof. Zeigler, teacher of the Central City Grammar school, is making a success of his new duties and is also successful in other ways, as was proven by all who saw him at church Sunday evening.

Mr. Chas. Callaway, of Johnstown, is paying his family here one of his occasional visits. Though he confines himself very closely to business there he endeavors to come home about once in two weeks.

Mr. W Fred Reynolds is now in Bellefonte, it being the first time we have seen him since his departure for Europe, his trip being terminated so sadly by the death of his father, the late Hon. Samuel Reynolds, of Lancaster.

Mr. Jack McClelland, recently foreman of the round house at Derry station, had presented to him an elegant tea service by the other employes with whom he had been associated. He leaves there to accept a similar position in Altoona. Mr. McClelland was at one time a resident of Bellefonte.

Governor Beaver, who owns the house occupied by County Treasurer Goss, on Lamb street, is having a new boardwalk laid in front of that property.

Mr. Foster Williams spent a few hours hunting the other day, bringing back nine squirrels. He says they were not pineys, either, as he could have shot an unlimited number of them.

Mrs. Isaac Dawson and Mrs. William Dawson, of this place, left on Monday evening for Washington city, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lucas, who were formerly residents of Bellefonte.

Lodge Officers,

The Odd Fellows of this place, two weeks ago, elected the list of officers given below, and on Thursday evening of last week they were installed. Here they are:

Noble Grand—A W Hafer.
Vice Grand—Samuel Hensel.
Assistant Secretary—H K Hoy.
Conductor—John Dubbs.
Warden—E C Hicklen.
R. S. N. G.—H C Weaver.
L. S. N. G.—W B Rankin.
R. S. V. G.—W H Miller.
L. S. V. G.—Benj. Shaffer.
O. G.—D I Parsons.
I. G.—Wm. Showers.
R. S. S.—N E Weaver.

A Campaign Song.

We have received some lines intended for a local campaign song, but do not know to what air it is to be sung. It contains some correct sentiments, among which we notice the fact that "Fleming is the leader who is always bound to win, right side up with care." Also the declaration that "We will vote for Billy Gray; he's just the man we want" and by his election can "bust the Court House ring." Then again the songster exclaims: "Three cheers for Musser; he is the people's choice, and the Democrats will rule no more." The final declaration is that "The Court House ring will bust in November, as we go marching along."

—The story of Patrick Grogan, of near Philadelphia, is a curious one. On the 5th day of July last the boiler which he was supposed to be taking care of as engineer exploded. What was supposed to be the dead and mutilated body of Grogan was found and buried and his $10,000 worth of property almost distributed, when the real Patrick Grogan reappeared. He had put another man in his place that day and the substitute was killed. Meanwhile Grogan had been on a hunting expedition in Virginia. When he returned only a few people would recognize him and many people were terrified because they thought he was Patrick Grogan's ghost.

—On Sunday Harry Keatly, of Pennsylvania Furnace, who, with his mother, Mrs. Robert Keatly, were visiting friends near Tyrone, was quite badly burned. Harry found a can containing some powder belonging to the contractors and taking a couple hands full he placed it under a stump and put a match to it, using a paper for a fuse. It failing to go off he went up and was blowing the paper when it exploded, blowing out into his face and burning him badly. His eyes are in very bad condition. He is now confined to bed.

—Here's a timely item from the Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Tribune: "Mrs. Dr. Gerhart, Mrs. A. A. Witter and Miss Effie Hamilton, of this place, will assist in a concert to be given in Bellefonte, Friday evening, October 11. Knowing full well the high qualities of the trio in musical qualifications, our Bellefonte friends will miss a rare treat who fail to hear them."

Arbor Day.

Dr. E. E. Higbee, Superintendent of Public Instruction, has appointed Friday, October 18th, as Arbor day. Public and Normal school teachers are urged by Dr. Higbee to see that as many trees as possible are planted, not only for the purpose of beautifying the school grounds but to enforce the educational power of tree planting among the young.

—The Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin is the very best daily paper that comes to us from that part of the State: It is handsome, newsy, reliable and a credit to journalism. We hope the people of Williamsport will support it liberally as it is favorable to any community to be represented by such a journal.

Still on the Track.

We are requested by many friends of Mr. John Harris to say that he has not withdrawn as a candidate for the Bellefonte post-office, notwithstanding the rumors that are being circulated to the contrary.

—Butter in Sugar valley is only 18 cts. here it is 25.

MARRIED.

POORMAN—LOWERY.—On September 25, 1889, by Rev. W. A. Houck, Edward W Poorman, of Coleville, and Virgie A Lowery, of Benner township.

STEVENSON—SWARTZ.—On Tuesday, October 8, by Rev. W A Houck, at the M E parsonage, Harry W Stevenson, of Clinton county, and Annie Swartz, of Centre county.

ZERBY—SPICER.—On September 24, at Centre Hall, by Rev. W E Fischer, Robert Zerby and Sidney R Spicer, both of near Centre Hall.
